OLIVER PREPARED TO GRANT RAILWAY SUBSIDY FOR LINE INTO PEACE RIVER COUNTRY

If Necessary He Would Extend Provincial Aid To Northern Project In Effort To Solve P.G.E. Problem and Give Settlers Transportation, He announces On Return Here; Vancouver Man To Be In Cabinet; No Separate Schools For British Columbia

That British Columbia, if necessary, grant a subsidy of land to any railway which will tap the Peace River country was the striking proposal advanced by Premier Oliver when he arrived here yesterday after his successful tour of interior constituencies. "Sooner than continue the annual loss of the P.G.E., I would advise the people of British Columbia, if necessary—and if the Dominion Government does not come to our aid—to give a subsidy of land to any railway that will connect us up with the Peace River country. I am speaking now personally, not having taken up this matter with other members of the Government, but I will stake my political life on the soundness of my judgment. Do not misunderstand me. I am not anxious to give away any land, but I am willing it be done if it should be found necessary."

BIG CROWD HEARS PREMIER
Opening the Liberal campaign in Vancouver on Saturday night, the Premier addressed an audience which overflowed the ballroom of the Hotel Vancouver. The main hall, galleries and all available space were filled long before the meeting commenced. Five of the six candidates of the party in Vancouver, made brief speeches and were given an enthusiastic welcome.

The Premier made his customary fighting speech in which he reviewed the record of his administration and at times, grew caustic in his references to his Conservative and Provincial opponents. He was frequently interrupted with bursts of applause. Expected heckling did not develop.

British Columbia's dependence upon equalized freight rates and his determination to wage an unrelenting fight were stressed by the Premier. In reviewing the Pacific Great Eastern Railway situation, he (concluded on page 2.)

CANDIDATES OF LIBERAL PARTY SPEAK TO-NIGHT
Government Supporters to Address Meeting in North Ward School
With the election campaign speeding up in all parts of the Province, this will be a busy week for candidates in the Victoria riding. To-night, Dr. M. Raynor, J. B. Clearhouse and S. J. Drake, Liberal nominees in the city, will speak in the North Ward School. They will explain to the people of the North Ward district why they are supporting Oliver Government in the present contest. A large attendance is expected.

Premier Oliver will return to the Island Wednesday to speak in the interests of F. R. Carlow, Liberal candidate in Esquimalt, at Cobble Hill. On Thursday the Premier and the three other Liberal candidates in Victoria will speak in Semple's Hall, Victoria West. The Premier also will speak here Saturday in the Margaret Jenkins School.

W. J. Edgar, leader of the Conservative Party, returned here today after a lengthy tour of the interior. "The Provincial Party is slipping in every constituency and in my opinion will not elect a single member to the Legislature," was the word brought by Mr. Edgar. "For the other reason, the Provincial Party's position is hopeless on account of the weak candidates it has nominated everywhere."

The Opposition leader is confident of the outcome of the election.

All the islands in the group are affected. Surf riding at Waikiki, Sunday afternoon recreation of thousands of Hawaiian residents, proved too dangerous yesterday and had to be foregone.

VICTORIA STORES MAKING BIG DISPLAY OF HOME PRODUCTS

B.C. Manufacturers Will be Featured During This Week

Extent of Goods Manufactured in Province Revealed to Shoppers

Stores in Victoria today responded nobly to the B.C. products week's effort, striking displays of British Columbia made goods were shown in most of the windows in the city, and in some instances the space was devoted entirely to goods made in this Province. Cards sent out by the Chamber of Commerce industrial group were also generously displayed. The attractive windows were in many instances a revelation to shoppers of the extent of British Columbia's manufactures.

Speakers have been arranged for at the service clubs' luncheons this week.

Cards listing household commodities produced in British Columbia will be distributed to householders. Stickers boasting purchasing of British Columbia products will be widely distributed on packages sent out for delivery generally.

"This effort would undoubtedly have had better results had more time been at the disposal of the industrial group executive who wish to take this opportunity of expressing their appreciation of the interest that has been displayed by manufacturer and distributor," M. P. Blair reported at the Chamber of Commerce directors' meeting today.

FOREST FIRE SITUATION IS GRAVE IN B.C.

All Districts in Hazardous Condition, Rangers' Report Shows; Public Warned

Continued drought, has made the forest fire situation all over British Columbia extremely grave, according to the weekly fire bulletin issued today by the Forest Branch of the Lands Department.

"Conditions are hazardous throughout the Province and indications for the coming week point to extremely dangerous conditions in every forest district," the bulletin says. "The public is requested to exercise every caution during the present period of forest danger."

So far 604 fire outbreaks have been reported. This is almost twice as many as in 1923, when 310 fires were reported.

The Vancouver district, including Vancouver Island, has suffered most so far, with 108 fires.

SCHOOL FIRE DEATHS WERE TWENTY-TWO

Twenty Subnormal Girls, Matron and Boy Burned in California

Eighteen Girls in Hospital; Building Was Unsuitable For School Purposes

Los Angeles, June 2.—A morgue and a hospital today housed all of the thirty-eight sub-normal girls who were in the care of the Hope Development School at Playa del Rey, south-west of here, when that institution was razed by fire Saturday night.

Twenty charred, twisted forms of what had been little children of less than ten years of age, or girls in their teens, or young women in their twenties, still children in mentality, were being prepared for burial at a Venice mortuary not far from the scene of the blaze.

Eighteen girls, most of them suffering from minor burns, were at St. Catherine's Hospital, Santa Monica. Also in the morgue were the bodies of Mrs. Drew Thomas, forty-eight, head matron of the school, formerly of Columbus, Ohio, who sacrificed her life in a vain effort to lead her prisoner.

ARE NOT PLANNING GOVERNMENT LOAN

British Ministers' Views Differ From Soviet Delegates; Guarantee Discussed

London, June 2.—The position of the Anglo-Russian negotiations here is a theme for comment in several of the morning newspapers, which express the opinion that Wednesday's meeting may lead to a deadlock on the financial issue. Christian Rakovsky, head of the Soviet delegation, is quoted as saying that nothing but intervention of the British Government can save the situation, which is interpreted to mean that the British Government is not planning a loan.

OTTAWA MINISTRY CONSIDERS MEASURE TO REDUCE NUMBER OF JAPANESE ENTERING CANADA

Ottawa, June 2.—Further restriction of Japanese immigration into Canada is under consideration by the Government, it was revealed today in the House of Commons when a question regarding Oriental immigration was asked.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Conservative Member for Vancouver Centre, inquired if the Government had received representations from retail merchants in British Columbia asking for the same restrictions now existing in respect to Chinese and what the Government intended to do about it.

Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Immigration, replied that such representations had been received and added that the "question of the advisability of further restricting Japanese immigration is under consideration."

The Canadian Government has no agreement with the Japanese Government not to pass further restrictive legislation, it was stated. The Japanese Government has agreed to restrict to 150 annually the number of Japanese coming to Canada as household servants or agricultural laborers, and this constitutes the quota of Japanese now allowed to enter the country. Last year 448 Japanese came to Canada.

TWO MISSIONARIES FREED BY CHINESE

Rev. R. A. Jaffray and Dr. H. G. Miller Were Prisoners of Pirates

Two Other Mission Workers Seized at Same Time Still Held

Peking, June 2.—Rev. Robert A. Jaffray, of Toronto, who was captured with three companions by Chinese bandits in Kwangsi Province a week ago, has been released, according to official advices received here. Dr. H. G. Miller, a United States citizen, one of Mr. Jaffray's fellow missionaries, was released with him, the report states.

Mr. Jaffray, who is a member of a prominent Toronto family, is chairman of the South China and French Indo-China missionary field. "He started at the head of a party of four missionaries to take supplies to a mission station. The bandits attacked the launch in which the missionaries were traveling and took them prisoner."

POINCARÉ RESIGNED TO-DAY AND PRESIDENTIAL CRISIS QUICKLY AROSE IN FRANCE

Situation Created By Group of Deputies Makes It Improbable Millerand Will Remain Head of State For Long; Extremists In Chamber Called For Resignation At To-day's Session

Paris, June 2.—Raymond Poincaré, who has held the premiership of France for two and a half years, tendered his resignation and of his Ministry to President Millerand today.

At the same time the new Chamber met in a stormy atmosphere amid recriminations, menaces and warnings and began its record by creating a presidential crisis. The more patient, cool-headed leaders of the new majority overwhelmed by their impatient, impetuous aggressive followers, failed to prevent the outburst, which in the judgment of the most competent and impartial judges of the situation makes it impossible for M. Millerand to stay long in the French White House.

Spokesmen representing the Elysée Palace say the President will yield only to a formal vote by both Houses of Parliament, and further that he will retire voluntarily only under three conditions, namely, if the Chamber is evacuated, if the new political situation in France brings on a conflict in the interior, or if the new Chamber fails to protect the franc. The Communists joined in the anti-Millerand movement immediately after Dr. Poincaré, dean of the Chamber had made the opening speech, introducing a motion that the Chamber suspend its sessions long enough to afford M. Millerand a chance to send in his resignation.

CALLED FOR RESIGNATION
"The motion was ruled out because it was declared unconstitutional, whereupon the extremists left set up a chorus of resign, resign, resign. This appeared to annoy the Radicals, who objected to interference by the extremists in the presidential question on account of the danger of provoking a reaction favorable to M. Millerand."

The attack on Millerand overshadowed for the moment the question of the formation of a new Ministry.

The Chamber will meet again Tuesday to elect its President, whereupon, according to custom, M. Millerand will arrive the new President and the President of the Senate to the Elysée Palace to consult with him regarding the new Cabinet. Both officials, it is certain, will recommend M. Herriot.

EUROPE EMERGING FROM WAR CHAOS, MR. NICHOL FINDS
Lieut.-Governor Sees Britain Making Rapid Strides Towards Prosperity

Canadian and British Columbia Exhibits Are Big Features at Wembley

After years of uncertainty, Europe is now making real strides out of the chaos that followed the war and into a new era of stable conditions, according to His Honor Lieutenant Governor W. C. Nichol, who arrived in Victoria yesterday after five months spent traveling through European countries.

"There is no lack of tangible evidence in Europe today to show that the European nations are getting back to normal basis," Mr. Nichol declared.

"The unemployment and other problems which one reads so much about in the newspapers is not visible to the visitor in Britain today," he declared. "So far as one can see England is just the same old England of pre-war days with important business expansion and building going forward."

"In Canadian and American newspapers one reads cables relating to the troubles with which England is struggling. I have come to the conclusion that this kind of thing is played up more than is justified. Conditions in England leave one with the firm impression that the British people are getting along quite well and able to look after themselves."

"There is no question that England is coming out of her post-war troubles with flying colors."

Asked what the British people thought of the MacDonald Government, Mr. Nichol replied that the average man appeared to feel that the administration was not half as bad as had been expected. "The British people don't want any more elections right away. They don't want political chaos. They want stable government, so the Labor administration is being given a chance to show its worth."

POPULAR HOTEL IS IMPROVED

Strathcona Has Betterments; Ladysmith Waterworks

Considerable improvements have been carried out at the Strathcona Hotel, Shawigan Lake, in drainage, tennis courts, garage, and similar betterments and as the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway owns the hotel, one of the best known on Vancouver Island, Newton J. Ker, Land Commissioner of the E. and N. Railway, was in the city to-day en route to look over the improvements. Mr. Ker proceeded to Ladysmith to inspect the progress on the waterworks. The company operating the city waterworks is a subsidiary of the E. and N. Railway, which is spending $15,000 in putting in a new service, pipe for which will be delivered in Ladysmith from the Old Country shortly. Orders for the valves are already in hand. Owing to the physical conditions the pressure will be reduced to twice between the lake which supplies the city, and the town level. The steep situation of Ladysmith's location presents, of course, exceptional difficulties in grades, and similar aspects to be considered of a waterworks system. Mr. Ker indicated to The Times that he expected the installation to be complete by October.

GYROS INSPECT LAUNDRY PLANT

Members of the Gyro Club to-day visited the premises of the New Method Laundry, under the guidance of the proprietor, L. D. McLean. Mr. McLean extended an invitation to the club to visit his place of business, where fifty-three Victorians are employed, as one of the plants on the list of "home industries" with which the Gyros intend to become familiar. Having borrowed a shirt of one of the members of the club, Mr. McLean demonstrated the various stages of laundering to the interested audience, who enjoyed the proceedings immensely, to the satisfaction of the plant authorities and the discomfiture of the Gyro who had offered his shirt as a source of education and amusement for the club. The visit to the laundry followed the usual weekly luncheon meeting of the club. A meeting of the directors was announced for this evening at Terry's Drug Store at 8:30 p.m. mean that the Government must reconsider its policy to guarantee a Russian loan if the negotiations are to continue. The Liberal and Labor newspapers suggest that Premier MacDonald, while maintaining the refusal of a Government loan, may take the step of offering a guarantee to a private lender, and may also invoke the Trade Facilities Act to develop trade between Great Britain and Russia, thereby, it is said, no limit to the amount of assistance the Government may give through this act. In the event of a guarantee to private lenders, however, the Government would have to be assured of parliamentary support.

that the fact that the Canadian building being finished on time gave an encouraging start to the public interest in Canada, which the publicity is designed to accomplish. The Government and railway buildings are thronged with visitors. What struck most was the fine measure of publicity secured for British Columbia. In comparison with population he states the share given to this province is large. Fine pictures of the Coast cities are to be observed, of Vancouver Harbor, and the water power developments of the B. C. Electric Railway Company are particularly the subject of admiration, panoramas being shown in connection with the water power branch of the Department of Interior. He was pleased to see the illustration of the Jordan River hydro-electric development shown in this connection. Interest in British Columbia matters was very marked, he was glad to observe.

Mr. Goward commends the splendid work being done by the B. C. Agent General, Mr. Wade, he says, is keeping B. C. before the public, and is winning favor as pre-eminent among the British representatives from Canada in London.

Georges in Bed With Ankle Hurt; Tommy Plays Golf

Michigan City, Ind., June 2—Georges Carpentier of France, defeated Saturday afternoon in his ten-round bout with Tommy Gibbons, remained in bed here with a badly swollen right ankle, sprained in the ninth round.

Four physicians said the ankle was seriously sprained, their examination revealing torn ligaments. In that announcement to the public the defeated fighter found some solace for the boos and taunts flung at him when he sank to the mat with his face twisted with pain.

Despite his defeat, Carpentier still is a strong drawing card, a half-dozen offers for future bouts having been received yesterday. The Frenchman hopes to carry out his plans to meet Gene Tunney, the United States light-heavyweight champion.

Gibbons broke camp yesterday, going to St. Paul. He was unmarked and played a round of golf before packing Mrs. Gibbons and their three youngsters on to the train.

SEES BIG FUTURE FOR WINE INDUSTRY ESTABLISHED HERE

Growers' Wine Company Has Large Field for Disposal of Product

The Growers' Wine Company Limited, which has been manufacturing a high grade of loganberry wine, under the name of "Vin Soleil," for the past eighteen months, has a bright and promising future, in the opinion of N. H. Lemont, manager and member of the board of directors of the concern. With Alberta and Manitoba already presenting a field for export from this Province, officials are satisfied that this product of Victoria will obtain a market. The company plans the manufacture of 20,000 gallons of the beverage this year. Saanich fruitgrowers are behind this corporation, and the wine is entirely a Victorian and Saanich product. Manufactured from well ripened Saanich loganberries, at the old Hudson's Bay Company warehouse on Wharf Street, it is stored two stories under ground in the spacious and cool cellars of the building. The production of this local firm is about five per cent. proof. The trade mark and name of the beverage is registered, and is a protection against inferior liquor which may be placed upon the market. Labels are supplied by the company, and not by the Government.

"It was largely through the efforts of F. A. Pauline, member for Saanich in the Provincial House, that the farmers of his constituency were enabled to become interested in this promising company," said Mr. Lemont, to The Times this morning. "and they have much to thank him for in this connection. Without him this venture would not have been possible, and we would never have attained that degree of success which is now ours."

"With the coming annual meeting of the directors and shareholders of the company this month," continued Mr. Lemont, "it is just possible that a new directing board will be chosen. The present officers, however, are carrying on competently in the meantime."

The directors of the company are as follows: H. E. Tanner, secretary of the Fruitgrowers' Association; Henry Mitchell and N. H. Lemont, Major F. W. B. George is secretary.

Card, of Australia, and Rex Ray, another American attached to the Southern Baptist Mission, who with twenty Chinese were captured at the same time.

The attack and capture took place as the men were on their way aboard the steamer Roanoke, owned by the Southern Baptist Mission, with supplies for the relief of besieged missionaries at Kwelin.

ROAD ALONG THE LAGOON SPIT

Announcement is Made of Importance to Western District

The Provincial Public Works Department has decided to build a road along the spit at the Esquimalt Lagoon, with a bridge from the spit to the Belmont side.

This plan will result in better communication for the residents around the Lagoon to reach the city, shortening the route, and avoiding the long and steep grade necessary to reach the Albert Head Road.

To those who use the Lagoon as a favorite resort in Summer, and who have been confined to practically one corner of it owing to the absence of a bridge, the announcement, which was made by the Esquimalt Liberal candidate for Esquimalt, during a meeting at Luxton Hall on Saturday evening, will be heartily welcomed. J. Trade the couple the chair, and Mr. Carlow had the assistance of Joseph B. Clearthue, who is seeking re-election in Victoria.

VICTORIA CITY TEMPLE FORMED

Dr. Davies' Supporters Too Numerous For Royal Theatre to Hold

Congregations of 1,000 and 2,000 respectively at the morning and evening services held by Dr. C. Davies in the Royal Theatre yesterday chose the name "Victoria City Temple" as the appellation of the new church. At the evening service 200 people were turned away, despite the 2,000 finding seats within the building and on the stage.

At the morning service, Dr. Davies preached on the Provincial Elections. His evening discourse was addressed to the story of the Prodigal Son. An executive committee of C. B. Deavitt, chairman; Victoria Leigh, treasurer, and Messrs. W. T. Bridge, Robert Beard, and Mrs. A. E. Humphries was chosen. The executive will have Raymond D. Wilder as secretary, and will be assisted by a general committee.

held out the hope that a successful solution of the problem would be found.

VANCOUVER MINISTER

The audience was set to wondering which of the six Vancouver Liberal candidates was due for a call on the Premier when the Premier said in his opening remarks: "It will be my privilege to name one of the Vancouver candidates a cabinet minister."

A straight denial was given to what he said was a story being circulated that the Government was in favor of separate schools.

"The schools in British Columbia will remain absolutely non-sectarian," he said. The Premier spent yesterday here, and then hurried back to the Mainland. He will return to his office tomorrow.

TO MEET CANADIAN BUSINESSMEN WHO VISIT EXHIBITION

A list of the names of Victoria business men planning to visit the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley was asked from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in a letter from S. Wellwood, British Trade Commissioner at Vancouver, read at the meeting of the board this afternoon. The Department of Overseas Trade has wired the Commissioner from London saying they are particularly anxious to arrange for personal attention to be paid to the business men of the Empire visiting the exhibition.

Woman Was Found Dead on Prairie

Regina, June 2.—Mrs. Charles Weber, wife of the postmaster at Buffalo Gap, a point twenty-two miles southwest of Bengough, Sask., was found dead on the prairie a mile from her home Sunday morning.

Dr. R. L. Ireland, Bengough coroner, has asked the police to make an investigation and has announced his intention of conducting an inquest.

A GREAT MISTAKE British interests which are engaged in trade with Canada, Mr. Nichol remarked, the naturally appointed with the Labor Government's hostility to preferential tariffs. They regard the Government's attitude on this matter as a great mistake, he said. "The people of England," the Lieutenant-Governor went on, "are strongly opposed to the deleterious system of handing unemployment. They believe it creates unemployment because there is a certain class of men who would rather accept doles than work."

the showing being made by British Columbia and Canada generally at the British Empire Exhibition. "We were in Paris when the Wembley Fair opened," he said, "and when we got over to see it, three weeks after the opening, found many of the buildings uncompleted. That was not the case with Canada, however, for it was the only one actually complete on the opening day. Mr. Tolmie, who is in charge, and Mr. Turcotte, the architect, are exceptionally able men who are giving a fine welcome to visitors, and most complete arrangements are in force for providing the fullest information to anyone interested in Canada."

IMMIGRATION AFFECTED

Mr. Nichol found in England that publicity directed against Canada is affecting immigration to this country. "Certain newspapers, which seem to delight in running down Canada, get hold of a few isolated incidents of men who have not succeeded here and, by emphasizing their cases, convey the idea that conditions generally here are unsatisfactory from the immigrant's standpoint," he explained. "As all Canadians know, however, there is plenty of opportunity here for men who are ready to work."

While in London Mr. Nichol, with Mrs. Nichol and their daughter, attended the first state ball given at Buckingham Palace for the King and Queen of Rumania. On that occasion the financing and disposing of the crop during the next few years may be satisfactorily solved.

There was some complaint that Okanagan apples were not available for sale. The Australians have shown much enterprise in providing supplies for visitors to purchase with the idea that later sales of fruit can be made. It might be of interest to say that I learned in London of a plan to market Okanagan fruit on a large scale in Britain. It is proposed to ship a very large part of the crop by refrigerator ships from Vancouver to England, where they would be put into cold storage for use as the market absorbed them. The grower would be paid upon their safe arrival in England and if this scheme goes through it looks as if

AGED EDMONTON MAN LOST LIFE

Edmonton, June 2.—John J. Sheppard, aged caretaker of Cherrill's riding academy stables here, is believed to have lost his life in a disastrous fire which destroyed the building early yesterday morning. Sheppard, who lived in the loft of the stable, was not seen after the fire broke out, and firemen were unable to get into the building to make a rescue.

The damage amounted to $3,000, eighteen valuable horses being lost.

Young Woman Is Charged With Killing Infant

Ottawa, June 2.—After carrying the body of her infant son in a club bag for three days, with the intention of disposing of it, a young woman aged twenty, giving the name of Edna Brambrook of Windsor, Ont., was arrested here last night on a charge of infanticide.

The woman, according to her story to the police, gave birth to the child six weeks ago. She accidentally killed it by suffocation while sleeping, and being without friends or money, she was afraid to notify the authorities.

MATHEMATICIANS TO MEET IN TORONTO

Leaders From Many Countries to Attend Congress in August

Toronto, Ont., June 2 (Canadian Press).—Mathematicians from all parts of the globe have signified their intention of attending the seventh international mathematical congress which will take place in Toronto in August concurrently with the meetings of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. As all previous sessions of this body, which constitutes an international parliament on mathematical matters, have been held in Europe, the University of Toronto and the Royal Canadian Institute are singularly favored in being honored with the first congress to be held on this continent.

Over 150 delegates from Europe are already pledged to attend the sessions, including eighteen leading mathematicians from the French universities. Representatives from the United States as well as from all Canadian universities will bring the total attendance to several hundred.

It is expected that full intercourse between the leaders on each side of the Atlantic in the realm of symbols and numbers will be possible, as the Federal and Provincial Governments have each set aside $25,000 to assist in defraying the expenses of the meeting, and the bulk of this money will be used to reduce the traveling expenses of the delegates from Europe.

JAPANESE DELEGATES
Japanese mathematicians have been invited to the conference and acceptance is expected from a number of them. The mathematical congress is affiliated with the International Scientific Union, formed at Brussels in 1922. This gives full voice in the meeting only to the countries which are members of the League of Nations, which accounts for the absence of German names on the list of those coming.

English will be the language of the sessions wherever possible, but those who do not feel competent to express their views to audiences in the English language will be allowed to speak in other tongues.

MATERIAL PROGRESS
While the congress differs from the British Association in that its discussions are of a specialized and technical nature, the various branches of mathematics have been regrouped for the forthcoming meeting in order to give additional attention to the applications of mathematics. This change has been made in order to secure in the sphere of applied mathematics full opportunity for consideration not only of those questions whose interest is purely scientific, but also those of practical problems of engineering whose solutions contribute directly to the cause of material progress.

ENTERTAINMENT
Professor J. C. Fields, F.R.S., of the University of Toronto, is head of the organizing committee here, and a number of sub-committees are at work arranging for the entertainment of the delegates and the conduct of the discussion groups.

There will be a special excursion to the Pacific Coast at the close of the convention, and the usual arrangements will be made for visitors who desire to inspect the Niagara peninsula.

NEW ATTENDANCE RECORD AT WEMBLEY

More Than 150,000 Visited
British Empire Exhibition
Last Saturday

London, June 2 (Canadian Press Cable).—All attendance records at the Empire Exhibition at Wembley were broken on Saturday when 150,000 persons had passed the turnstiles by 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The size of the crowd led to some difficulty for many of them in obtaining refreshments.

Unprecedented quantities of apples were disposed of in the Australian Pavilion, where about 20,000 purchasers carried off fifteen tons, or approximately 201,000 apples.

BALDWIN FINDS ELECTIONS COSTLY

British Ex-Premier Forced to Abandon Practice of Giving
Subscriptions

London, June 3 (Canadian Press Cable).—Former Premier Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservative Party, told his constituents in a speech Saturday night that he could not afford to give any more subscriptions simply because he had not the money.

In the last three years I have paid out £2,000 fighting elections, and I was able to do it only by using my capital," he added. "I say this for the sake of many men of strong personality and brains who are not so wealthy as I, but sometimes get turned down by shortsighted constituents who expect some one to spend money in the constituency at a rate I would be ashamed of even if I had the money."

Mr. Baldwin added that one of the strongest points in the financing of the Labor Party was that every member of the party subscribed to the funds and therefore felt a personal success in the party's success. Conservatives were poorer since the war, he added, and those able to finance the party were much more limited in numbers.

FARMS AND MINES CANADA'S STRENGTH

Winnipeg, June 2.—That the future of Canada lies in mining and agriculture rather than in manufacturing industries, at least until the population is very greatly increased, was the opinion expressed during an interview here last night by Sir William Maxwell, K.C.B.E., respondent.

Sir William, who came to Western Canada in connection with his mining interests and the establishment of a Dominion paint and composition company, with headquarters and factory in Vancouver, issued a warning to those interested in the Canadian mining industry "to put their heels on any wildcat schemes."

"If this is done, I am confident capital will be forthcoming as required from Great Britain," he declared.

Customs and Excise Revenue Shows Decrease

Ottawa, June 2.—A decrease of $9,554,304 in the total customs and excise revenue of Canada during the months of April and May, 1924, as compared with the total for the same two months a year ago is shown by an official statement just issued.

The total revenue from customs and excise for the two months of the present year were $27,463,235, as against $47,017,539 for the two-month period of 1923. Customs collections during the two months of the present year totalled $21,450,494, as against $23,116,942 last year.

SAVING THE 'CANADIAN TAX-PAYERS' MONEY

PREMIER MACKENZIE KING and his Government at Ottawa are proving that their expressed determination to reduce expenditure is no idle boast.

In the Budget speech a surplus of $30,000,000 was announced. This was later increased to $35,000,000 by revised returns. Of this total, $10,000,000 resulted from the cancellation of an obligation and payment of a book debt by Great Britain. Energetic cutting of Federal expenditure is responsible for the saving of the other $25,000,000.

How expenditure has been reduced in the last three years is shown in the following official figures quoted by Premier King:

Fiscal Year	Total Disbursements	per Capita
1921-22	$463,652,436	$51.77
1922-23	$34,452,341	47.50
1923-24	370,213,651	39.66

Premier King put the situation concisely in these words:

"For every nine dollars which my hon. friends opposite were spending when they left office, this Government is now spending only seven dollars."

Those are results that tell.

DOMINION STATUS

THE question of Ireland's relation to Britain and the terms used in describing it under her new Free States status has been raised in two forms.

One has to do with the representation of Ireland in the House of Lords and has come up in connection with the death of the Earl of Bandon, the first Irish peer to die since the establishment of the Free State. It is now realized that the Anglo-Irish Treaty contains nothing about representation of Ireland in the Lords. Unless new legislation is adopted, Ireland will cease to be there represented on the death of the other twenty-seven Irish peers. Ireland's status as regards the House of Lords will then be on a par with that of the Overseas Dominions.

The other was raised during the debate in the Irish Parliament on the rum-running treaty when strong objection was taken to the preamble because in it "the sovereignty was officially described as 'King of the United Kingdom and Ireland.'" The discussion resulted in the preamble being thrown out and the articles of the Treaty adopted with the following addition:

"Provided that such approval shall not be deemed to be an approval or acceptance of the inclusion of Ireland in the description of the United Kingdom among the royal titles of the Crown as one of the parties to the said Treaty."

During the debate, Mr. Hugh Kennedy, Attorney-General, said that Dominion status was tantamount to political independence. The Dominion of Canada was not a dominion of Britain, but purely of Canada, and similarly the Free State of Ireland was not the Free State of Britain. Dominion status held no implication of subordination.

Professor Magennis developed the Canadian precedent, saying that during the last ten years Canada had developed from a British colony into what is virtually an independent nation. The term "His Britannic Majesty" and the British flag were to be interpreted in no narrow sense. His Britannic Majesty was the Crown of the Commonwealth and the British flag was the Commonwealth flag.

The Manchester Guardian in the following has suggested a way of getting over the difficulty:

"Presumably this trouble will recur, and, slight as the ground for it seems, it will be worth avoiding. The simple omission of the words 'and Ireland' from the King's title would apparently vindicate strict accuracy and soothe the objectors in the Dail; with that omission the essential words would run 'of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and of the British Dominions Beyond the Seas.' The Irish Free State would then be represented as standing in the same relation to the British Throne as Canada or Australia, which is presumably all that is needed."

The Colonist came near raising another yellow peril scare with the patriotic controversy in that paper over the flying of a Chinese flag on May 24. Records for distressing discoveries were broken, however, when at the end of the week it was found that the yellow flag with the supposed dragon was the Scottish flag with the red lion. It's the turn of the Scots to be heard from now. Diplomacy would have hushed the discovery.

According to Mr. G. J. Mout of Gangethe people of British Columbia are so pleased with the way Mr. Bower has been conducting his duties as Opposition leader that there is an almost unanimous desire to leave him there for another four years. Provided, of course, his constituents in Vancouver can be induced to take this public-spirited view of the matter.

ASK MR. BOWSER WHO DID IT?

"WHO did it?" is a question audiences might pertinently ask of campaign orators for Mr. Bowser when, in their enthusiasm, they seek to give the impression that Premier Oliver's Government was responsible for "loading the Province with the following guarantees":

Canadian National Rly.	$40,000,000
P.G.E.	20,000,000
Vancouver Sewerage	3,000,000
French Ore Production Co.	40,000
Agricultural Credits	1,000,000
Nicomex Dyking	87,000

Bucolic speakers, because of inexperience, may talk of these items, but not with the consent of advice of Mr. Bowser. There are six reasons why Mr. Bowser will not talk of them:

1. Canadian National guarantee on $40,000,000 was loaded on to the Province in 1942 when Mr. Bowser was Attorney-General and the power behind the throne. British Columbia would now be paying the annual interest on these bonds had not Premier Oliver in the Canadian National settlement induced the Dominion Government to assume the liability and meet the annual payments as it is now doing.

2. P.G.E. guarantees of $20,000,000 were loaded on to British Columbia in the years from 1913 to 1915 when Mr. Bowser was Attorney-General and the power behind the throne.

3. Vancouver Sewerage loan for $10,000,000 was put through in 1914 when Mr. Bowser was Attorney-General and the power behind the throne. Only $3,000,000 of the total has been loaned out for Greater Vancouver sewerage construction, but under present management the areas benefited are bearing all the annual charges on the loan.

4. French Ore Production loan of $40,000 was put through on May 31, 1916, when Mr. Bowser was Attorney-General and the power behind the throne. There has never been paid back one cent of this to the Province.

5. Agricultural credits to the total of $1,000,000 were put through and scattered imprudently around the Province in 1913 when Mr. Bowser was Attorney-General and the power behind the throne.

6. Nicomex Dyking advance of $87,000 was also put through when Mr. Bowser was Attorney-General and the power behind the throne.

If these six items are to be raised in this campaign they reveal themselves as six more reasons why Mr. Bowser will never be put back into office by the people of British Columbia.

Paris reports that smoking among women is passing out, says The Toronto Star. Well, that's better than if the ladies themselves were doing it.

Seven and eight figures used in discussion of Provincial debts sound like estimates of General McRae's income-taxless private fortune.

No wonder our morning neighbor gets mixed over the Conservative and Provincial parties when it allows the Scottish flag to be mistaken in its columns for the Chinese.

More than $1,000,000 has been paid by New Brunswick in wildcat bounties since the beginning of the year. People of British Columbia can beat that in what they have paid for wildcat stock.

FEWER RUNAWAYS

A contemporary reminds us that some of us are old enough to remember a time when people used to be run over by horses. Come to think of it, runaway accidents used to be quite frequent, and we haven't heard of one for a long time.

DON'T BE LOOKING FOR SNUBS

From The Woodstock Sentinel-Review
The freedom which the Dominions claim for themselves they must concede to Great Britain. If the British Government believes that the best interests of Great Britain and the Empire are not promoted by tariff systems, it is not fair to regard such a decision as a snub. The Dominions have followed their own will, often enough without much regard for British sentiment. When the plea was raised in Canada that the national policy of Protection, which imposed a tariff on British goods, might injure British connection, the reply was "so much the worse for British connection."

There is really no need to be looking for snubs.

AFTERGLOW

From The Wave
The hills are black against the setting sun, And one by one
The stars come out and beakon to the moon.
The dunes become a devils Cretan maze
Off to the east,
An amethyst haze.

On every side the grasswood bushes bloom,
Laxious with grace,
And all the desert is an echoing empty room.
And all the world is crumbling yellow sand,
Soft, like old lace,
Beneath my listless hand.

And what is fame? A tracing in the sand?
If we were silent, songs would yet be sung
Of you, or of another.
It is much the same;

But desert wind is cool against my face,
Slowly I trace your name.
—Lucy H. Sturges.

Dr. Frank Crane on "What Shall Endure?"

(Copyright)

THERE is a good deal of a tendency in this brutal materialistic age, to worship the great, stupid god, Fact. A hard, gritty, tangible brick is considered much more real than a shimmering, flickering idea. Hence, we are building thirty-story office buildings, but we are writing no Hamlets or Iliads.

It seems to be a self-evident truth that the thing which is more real than the thing which is only imagined. However, it is not true at all. Dreams, on the contrary, are more enduring than court testimony. Fancy is more permanent than fact. An airy nothing of the brain will outlive a stone castle.

The works of the imagination stand the storms of centuries, while the works of man's hands fall. The tooth of time which gnaws the temple is powerless against the legend of its god. The ancient shrines of India are fallen down and gone, over their scattered stones the weeds creep and the moss grows, trees have sprung up in the cracks of their monoliths; but the folk tales which Hindu mothers sang in the days when these holy houses were freshly built Hindu mothers still sing to their babies to-day, when the antiquary is trying to decipher the inscription on the temple fragments.

The Parthenon in Athens, the Colosseum in Rome, the crowded statues which Saul of Tarsus saw as he walked up to Mars Hill have been pillaged, broken, scattered; the four winds of heaven have divided among themselves the physical splendors of Greece; but the song a blind old Greek minstrel sang before these mighty houses were set up, rings in the ears of the twentieth century. "Menin aeide thea Peleidae Achilleus."

Of "the glory that was Rome," Hadrian's gardens at Tivoli, once the wonder of the world, full of palaces and porticoes, artificial lakes and grottoes, temples and schools and baths and roads and now a place of desolation, only one plant, a species of yew, which the Emperor brought from the Orient, still blooming here, fragrant and faithful to his memory. The Roman Forum is a hole in the ground, a marble wilderness of destruction, though it was "once and long the centre of the universe, whence a mandate, eagle-winged, went to the ends of the earth, but the power of one Horace, who walked its streets in the days of its prime, are yet learned by school children the world over; rock and bronze have perished; it was the singer who built the "monument more lasting than brass."

Fenian Raid Fostered Confederation Sentiment

IMMEDIATELY after the close of the Civil War in the United States and the turning loose upon that country of thousands of men with a certain training and experience in the use of arms and no niche in civil life into which to fit, there appeared a danger of invasion to the British Provinces and territories sprawling unorganized and disunited across the northern half of the continent. There was much talk of sweeping on to Canada now that the fighting business was familiar and the weapons in hand, and of cleaning the flag of Britain once for all from the face of North America. Such talk proceeded mainly from Irish immigrants and from Irish adventurers who had fought in the war. These members of the Irish Fenian movement, actually organized an Irish Republic in the United States, adopted a flag, and elected a "president of Ireland" and a government. Canada was to be the first territory where this Government should try its "prentice hand at administration."

The movement was a very serious danger to Canada and the other British Provinces not only from the military action these people could take, but because the United States Government was in the habit of sending them into the United States to be trained in the use of arms and to be sent back to Canada to lead the Fenian movement. The United States Government was almost persuaded to ask her to withdraw it. Five years later the Chairman of the United States Senate Committee on Foreign Relations said: "The greatest peril to goodwill between the United States and Great Britain is from Fenianism, which is excited by the proximity of the British flag in Canada. Therefore the withdrawal of the British flag cannot be abandoned as a condition or preliminary of such a settlement as is now proposed."

IN May, 1866, organization of the Fenian forces was well advanced and late in that month bodies of men were concentrated in Buffalo. The Canadian Government was warned, notably by Colonel Denison of Toronto, still living there, who received confidential information from the United States, but nothing was done, and there was not even a picket line when the Fenians to the number of fifteen hundred crossed the Niagara River during the night of May 31, took possession of Fort Erie, commandeered what they wanted and wrecked railways, telegraphs and bridges. Next morning early the Militia Department, which had been awakened with a shock, hurriedly sent regulars and militia from Toronto across Lake Ontario and through the Welland Canal to Port Colborne, and also to St. Catharines and thence to Chippewa on the Niagara River. Militia from Hamilton, Welland and other nearby towns was sent to Port Colborne also. It was thought the Fenians would strike at the Welland Canal.

Next morning, June 2, 1866, the forces from Port Colborne and from Chippewa converged to meet at Stevensville, not far from Port Erie. The Port Colborne force under Colonel Booker, without warning, came in contact en route, near the village of Ridgeway, with the Fenian "Army" under "General" O'Neill, marching westward to dynamite the locks on the Welland Canal. There was a sharp engagement. The Fenians were pressed back at first, but rallied, and in turn pressed back the militia retreated, none too orderly, toward Port Colborne, and the Fenians retired in similar disorder to Fort Erie.

Meanwhile the force from Chippewa, under Colonel Pencock, advancing, reached the outskirts of Fort Erie about dusk and bivouacked ready to attack at dawn. During that afternoon numerous Fenian reinforcements from Buffalo were turned back by the United States gunboat Michigan. The Fenians, after returning to Fort Erie, and driving out a small body of militia which had dropped in by boat from Port Colborne while they were absent, finding their situation growing somewhat cramped, made off to the United States shore in the course of the night, but were stopped, arrested and taken in tow as prisoners by the gunboat Michigan.

Some sixty Fenian stragglers were captured in Fort Erie, much to the disgust of the Government, which did not really want to have to deal with them, tried and sentenced to penal servitude. For some time a military force encamped along the border, discouraged repetitions of this wretched raid. The danger had been real, however, the temper of the United States being so uncertain, and thus the raid was a great blessing to Canada, for it clinched the decision of thousands that Confederation of the Provinces must come without delay.

A SHORT-SIGHTED POLICY

To the Editor:—It is true that the authorities at Colwood race track have imported a man from Vancouver to be the referee of the course? If this is a fact it will hardly go to make racing, none too popular already, any more agreeable to the public when it becomes known that local men applied for the position and men well qualified to hold the post. The number of men out of employment in and around Victoria, stands a small chance of being reduced by these conditions, unless the Hon. T. G. Coventry supports them in the way he will want them to support him at the poll.

FAIR PLAY

June 1.

FAIR PLAY ASKED

To the Editor:—Would like to voice my disapproval through your valuable paper of the article appearing in your contemporary signed Mrs. Inglis, in which the lady is evidently confusing the Scotch flag with the Canadian flag. The Scotch flag is red and white and is considered one of England's first rank ornaments. He is also a noted composer and has written for the organ and piano.

Would like to state for their benefit that it is better to be broadminded and remember our neighbors who have come to our assistance when it was needed and need the warm esteem of all who like to give "British fair play." Would also remind some people that Victoria is looking forward to these same neighbors for the prosperity of our island this Summer. "Let us forget" can be applied to America, returned men and people made destitute, and our energies should be directed to those bereaved and bereft, instead of useless prating re flags they do not understand.

AGED MAN TIRES OF SUFFERING

Victim of Malady For Three Years, Benjamin Croft, Commits Suicide

The pathetic death of Benjamin Croft, seventy-two-year-old resident of Colwood, whose body was found at 4.30 on Saturday evening beside a shotgun in his room, was related by Coroner E. C. Hart at the inquest at McCall's funeral premises this morning.

It appears the late Mr. Croft had been an invalid for the past three years, in which time he had suffered terribly from an incurable ailment. On Saturday he was left alone in the house for a few hours and when his wife returned it was to find the body on the floor.

Death was caused by the discharge of a shotgun in the mouth. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Benjamin Croft, and one daughter, the latter sixteen years of age. Evidence was given by Dr. David Donald, first person to arrive on the scene after the finding of the body. After a few moments' deliberation the jury returned a verdict of self-inflicted death.

The late Mr. Croft was well known and liked in the community. His tragic end came as a great shock to his friends.

COST TOO HIGH TO BRING SCIENTISTS

May Require $10,000 on Top of $6,000 Traveling Expenses, Premier Told

After hearing that it would cost at least $6,000 to $10,000 to entertain the party of British scientists coming to Canada during their visit to British Columbia the Vancouver Board of Trade decided not to send a delegation to interview the Provincial Government, the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce were advised to-day.

The Provincial Government had refused to make a grant for traveling expenses of the scientists, and it was pointed out that no assurance was given the Premier that once having paid the $6,000 asked for, the central committee arranging the scientists' tours would have enough funds to see that these scientists having come to the West would see the natural resources of the district.

Premier John Oliver had been informed that in addition to the $6,000 required to bring the scientists here another $6,000 to $10,000 more would be required to entertain the party.

ASSOCIATION STILL SHORT OF MORTGAGE MONEY

Y.M.C.A. Had Not Enough Cash on Hand This Morning

In the canvass of the residential district on Saturday by members of the Boys' Department of the Y.M.C.A., a total of over $250 was obtained, but with this the association lacks several hundred dollars of the desired amount. The association was pleased to acknowledge the receipt of this sum from its junior members this morning, and believes that it will go far in making possible the payment of the mortgage due today.

The association awaits the coming of pledged funds and promissory subscriptions with some little anxiety, for without these it will be impossible to clear the building of debt and take advantage of the offer of the mortgage to allow the mortgage to clear for $10,000. Otherwise, if the mortgage is not paid up, the Y.M.C.A. faces either foreclosure on its property or the payment of the full amount of the mortgage, $55,000.

Harold Crook, secretary of the association, announced this morning that he could say nothing definite as to the payment of the mortgage, but that the association would decide the matter after the meeting of the executive committee tomorrow.

He could not actually promise the $10,000, but said that the money was in sight, partly in promises and partly in cash. There is possibly a deficit of about $1,000 in the total required.

A Liberal meeting will be held in the Free Hall at 8 o'clock on Friday night. Miss Catherine Negus will act as chairman and Miss Beth Simpson will be the soloist of the evening. The following speakers will give short addresses: Dr. M. A. Rayner, S. J. Drake, J. B. Clearinghouse and C. H. O'Halloran.

WILL ERECT LARGE PAPER MILL SOON

International Paper Company Will Gradually Cross Into Canada From U.S.

President Says Placing of Newsprint on Free List in U.S. is Cause

New York, June 2.—Looking forward to the removal of its entire newsprint manufacturing interests to Canada, the International Paper Company will break ground in the near future for the erection of a new plant in the Dominion, it was announced today.

The action of the United States Congress in placing newsprint on the free list, Mr. Dodge said, "has dealt the United States industry a death blow. We will continue manufacturing in the United States for a long time to come, but without a tariff to protect us we cannot thrive. We will continue because we own valuable timber tracts, but when these are exhausted we will cease manufacturing. We cannot compete against the cheap labor of foreign countries."

ELECTION TO-DAY IN NEWFOUNDLAND

People Are Choosing Members of Legislature; Campaign Was Quiet

St. John's, Nfld., June 2.—An election campaign of three weeks, one of the briefest and quietest in the history of Newfoundland, ended to-day with the election of the members of the House of Assembly. In the eighteen electoral districts into which the country is divided, the campaigning has been devoid of any unusual incident except for a brief demonstration of a handful of opposition supporters on Saturday night against the office of The Evening Advocate, the Government organ. The total damage was a couple of broken windows.

Both parties have full representations in the field, the total number of candidates being seventy-three. Seventy-two of these are party nominees, the extra man being former Premier Warren, contesting his seat of Port au Port as an Independent. Fortune is the only district in which the country is divided, in which the country is divided, the campaigning has been devoid of any unusual incident except for a brief demonstration of a handful of opposition supporters on Saturday night against the office of The Evening Advocate, the Government organ. The total damage was a couple of broken windows.

NEWSPAPER MEN Taking a Voyage

Prince Rupert, June 2.—The Canadian Press and Canadian Daily News papers Association parties on their way to hold their annual meetings are traveling southward on the G.T.P. steamship Prince George, having left here last night for Vancouver.

The beautiful wooded valleys of the Nechako, Bulkley and Skeena Rivers charmed the travelers. Delayed in their schedule by the departure of a gravel train at Hudson Saturday evening, the plans of the party had to be changed on their arrival here and they went direct from their special cars on the Canadian National train to the steamship, which was waiting to carry them to Vancouver.

On their arrival in Prince Rupert members of the parties were much interested in the development of Prince Rupert fisheries. They had noticed several cars of fish from this point consigned to eastern markets on trains which they met en route to the Pacific Coast.

VANCOUVER MAN KILLED

REGINS CANASS OF CITIZENS

Funds Are Wanted For Fleet Welcome Shortly

The canvass of the city for funds to entertain the British Special Service Squadron, in view of the shortage of public grants, began this morning. At least $5,000 is wanted, and the committee could extend its programme to reasonable dimensions if the subscriptions totalled $10,000, in addition to the public grants in aid.

The appeal for decorations, which will have largely to be a personal stimulus of patriotic impulse, is now being met by the committee, which is met with discouraging results in its application to the western governments to erect arches, and to the western cities, for bunting to decorate the facades of the principal streets. An attempt will be made to interest the various racial and fraternal organizations to erect arches of the type which prevailed here on festival days in pre-war celebrations.

There will be a meeting of the decorations committee at 5 o'clock tomorrow, and at 3 o'clock the field day committee will assemble. These meetings will be anticipatory of the next session of the executive committee.

SAY SMUTS WILL WIN IN ELECTION

Cape Town Stock Exchange Men Predict His Party Majority Will be Eleven

Meeting in Durban Broken Up; Smuts Warns of Red Flag Menace

Cape Town, June 2.—(Canadian Press via Reuters).—A majority of eleven over all other parties for the South African Government Party in the general election on June 17, based on the opinions of agents throughout the Union, is forecast by the stock exchange.

The Rand Daily Mail, Johannesburg, commenting on this forecast, states that it will probably be taken by those who know the stock exchange in matters of this kind is usually pretty accurate.

MEETING BROKEN UP

More than 500 persons packed the Durban Town Hall Saturday night to hear Premier Smuts's election appeal, but disturbances, organized by a minority created such pandemonium that the Premier eventually left the hall without speaking. Subsequently the police broke up an open-air meeting of his supporters.

"The Red Flag has come to South Africa and free speech and the fundamental rights of free citizens are being trampled on," said Smuts. "This night we do more than any speech of mine to arouse the public to a realization of the dangers from past rule."

NO CABINET POSTS FOR NATIONALISTS

German Party Object of Suspicion in Britain and U.S., Says Bernhard

Share in New German Government Opposed; Monarchists Busy Scheming

Berlin, June 2.—Grand Admiral von Tirpitz as Chancellor-Regent, and Wilhelm, Frederick Hohenzollern, eldest son of Frederick Wilhelm Hohenzollern, former Crown Prince of Germany, as "chair warmer" for the monarchy, is alleged to constitute the pet scheme of the German Nationalists, according to George Bernhard, editor of The Vossische Zeitung. Bernhard asserts that these are the features of a coup d'etat planned by the Nationalists.

The editor intimates that both the United States and Great Britain have joined in a plan officially aimed at forestalling the entry of the German Nationalists into the new Government, and that a strong hint has been given from both quarters that the advent of reactionaries into the Cabinet would occasion pronounced misgivings in both countries.

BOOTLEGGER IS TO PAY INCOME TAX

Judge Says Canada to Share in Windsor, Ont., Man's Profits

Ottawa, June 2.—(Canadian Press).—Mr. Justice Audette, in the Exchequer Court to-day, dismissed with costs the appeal of Cecil R. Smith, garage proprietor of Windsor, Ontario, who sought to have exempted from income tax profits he made in bootlegging. Smith claimed that as profits earned in bootlegging were illicit, they were not taxable.

"This," declared Mr. Justice Audette in dismissing Smith's appeal, "is not a case with a meritorious quality commending itself to a court of justice. It is a case in which the appellant is claiming immunity from paying taxes and to be placed in a better position than if he were an honest and legal trader, and asks the court to discriminate in his favor against other honest traders. As against an innocent taxpayer no man shall set up his own iniquity to operate such discrimination in his favor."

A TAINTED CLAIM

"His claim rests upon and is tainted with illegality and no court will lend its aid to a person who rests his claim on an illegal act."

"Whoever seeks justice must come into court with clean hands. The appellant knew of the impropriety of carrying on such a trade in Ontario. He knew it was wrong and no man can take advantage of his own wrong. The author of a wrong cannot be allowed to take advantage or avail himself of his wrong. The appellant is stopped from benefiting from his wrongful act and on that ground alone the appeal must be dismissed."

WOULD THROW GATE OPEN TO SETTLERS LOOKING TO CANADA

Opposed to Best Interests of Canada to Halt Immigration, Says Committee

Opposition to recommendations from Toronto that a halt be called in immigration to Canada was expressed in a report presented by Thos. Walker for the Immigration Committee of the Chamber of Commerce directors to-day. The committee, however, agreed that the municipalities should not be asked to support unemployed immigrants, but advocated closer co-operation between departments of Provincial and Federal Governments for distribution of immigrants to sections of the country where their services were needed.

The reply to Toronto should be guided by the following, the committee suggested:

"1. The need for closer co-operation between the Immigration and Colonization Departments of Canada and the Employment Service of the Dominion, as our troubles arise from the different Federal Departments working from different viewpoints, which certainly should not be."

"2. If the Immigration and Colonization Departments were in close touch with the Employment Service of Canada, they would know exactly how to handle the labor situation. The Employment Service send their statistics to the Department of Labor. If the Minister of that Department could transfer that information to the Immigration Department and the Soldier Settlement Board, which we understand is subsidiary to the Immigration Department, a lot of our troubles would be eliminated."

"3. Your committee believe there may be room for improvement in the Immigration Department, but are strongly of the opinion that municipalities should not be asked to support unemployed immigrants, and are adverse to the stopping of immigration as they believe it is entirely opposed to the best interests of the country."

"A LITTLE MORE . . ."

It is just that extra little that makes the difference and explains why we never lose business when quality is a factor.

Cottages Are Being Erected on Three-Acre Plots For Newcomers

Ottawa, June 2.—Rev. Father R. A. Macdonnell, managing director of the Scottish Immigrant Aid Society, will sail on Friday from Montreal for the Old Land and hopes to return August 2 with another party of between 300 and 600 Scottish crofters for Canada.

He states that within the last twelve months his society has settled in Alberta about 700 Hebrideans, most of whom have been satisfactorily located on farms of their own or are working for other farmers, and they make good settlers and citizens. Four of the directors of the society have contributed $15,000 to erect cottages on three-acre plots of farm land. Fourteen of these cottages are built and occupied and by arrangement with the Government Settlement Office, under the British Empire Settlement Act, the society will be able to erect 100 additional cottages in Western Canada.

Dempster Jr. responded in a neat little speech, and on behalf of the family thanked all for their good wishes. The evening concluded with music and dancing, the music being supplied by Larman's orchestra. Previous to the above event Mrs. Dempster was presented at her home Ernest Avenue with an ebony dressing set from a few personal friends.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Watt was obliged to decline the honor because of the Canadian regulation which refuses permission to Canadians to accept foreign Orders, but the suggestion is gratifying not only to Mrs. Watt but to Canada."

YOUR HEALTH

WATCH BOTH FOOD AND AIR TO GOOD HEALTH OF CHILD

By Royal S. Copeland, M.D.

A "weighing competition" was held recently to select the girl child who is most underweight for her age in New York City. The "winner" is to be kept at the Josephine Home for Anaemic and Underweight Children for six months, if necessary, and nourished until she is fat and rosy-checked.

I haven't heard how many children entered this pathetic contest. But my knowledge is such that I know tens of thousands of New York City children are seriously underweight. I may say, indeed, that thousands of these are so undernourished that they require medical attention as well as food.

Isn't it a terrible thing that in our rich America there should be any underfed children! With all the food which goes to waste every year, it is a crime against society to have children go to bed hungry. Statesmen must find a way to remedy this fatal weakness.

But alas! it is not poverty alone which must be conquered. There are things even worse than poverty. One of these is ignorance.

Many and many children are underweight because of the ignorance of their parents regarding the most fundamental things relating to health.

If you are a parent or a prospective parent, if you are guardian of a child, if you are a kind neighbor, you should give yourself an education in child welfare. It won't be hard to find competent teachers. Every doctor, every nurse, every health official, every social worker, every well-trained public school teacher—all these are competent instructors and will be glad to aid in your education if you seek their advice. I am glad to say there is a national organization devoted to work in this field.

We must do our full part to make will be various attractions, including sports, the Maypole dance and two lacrosse games. As there is to be a free tea for the children, it is hoped all parents and members of the Institute will bring cakes. The proceeds are in aid of the Children's Memorial Park. It is hoped to raise enough to lay the Park out and put in a tennis court and swings.

CHEMAMINUS

Mrs. E. M. Cook is visiting in Vancouver.

A girl entered a public library in Boston, U. S. A., of all places, and asked for "The Red Boat." No such a necessary campaign of education succeed. It cannot meet with one hundred per cent. success until every parent knows and applies the simple rules of health and personal hygiene. Underweight is commonly believed to be associated exclusively with the feeding of the child. Nothing could be further from the truth. You will be surprised to know that the undernourished child may actually be eating too much food!

The secret of plumpness and rosy cheeks lies in the mixture in right proportions of food and air. One without the other will prove a miserable failure.

Deep breathing is just as necessary as abundant food. Quantities of fresh air breathed into lungs opened by exercise are just as essential as quantities of food taken into the stomach.

Until you give the child fresh air day and night and teach him to breathe, efforts confined to feeding alone will prove hopeless, and resultless. In the absence of organic defects, proper proportions of air and food will wipe out undernourishment.

LITERARY NOTES

Hatcher Hughes' "Hell-Bent For Heaven," which has just been awarded the 1,000 Pulitzer prize for "the original American play, performed in New York, which shall best represent his educational value and power of the stage in raising the standard of good morals, good taste, and good manners," is a play of distinction, with effective scenes and good characterization. The scene is laid in the mountains of the Southern States. Mr. Hughes' villain is a religious fanatic, a half-crazed zealot, whose delirious proceeds from his jealousy of the hero's successful efforts to win the hand of the mountain belle. His villainies are not without a melodramatic touch, but the motives are unstrained and the idea novel.

Harpers are publishing this play in their Modern Drama series.

Mr. Philip Guedalla's new book, "A Gallery" (Constable) is amusing and entertaining in the highest degree. He includes Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in the series of portraits entitled "The Seven Sleepers," and Mr. Winston Churchill among "The Seven Lamps of Liberalism." But even if the reader is repelled by the Curzonian superiority of these studies, he is intrigued and delighted on page after page with his whimsical cleverness. We see Sir James Barrie becoming the anointed king of the English theatre, although for the most part an invisible king. We see Mr. Shaw "confronted at birth by the challenging spectacle of his countrymen spread out in rows before him waiting to learn." We see Mr. Conrad holding each sentence at arm's length before he puts it into place. We see Mr. Asquith with "a tolerant conception of the incurable stupidity of other people," as almost his only symptom of success. We see Mr. Lloyd George in his earlier political stages investing the mildest reforms with an air of adventure. But for these and for many other visions and revelations the reader must be referred to the volume itself.

How do you grade your poets? On the style of Evert Duyckinck's copy of "Memorabilia of Phials of Amber Full of the Tears of Love," published by Mr. Chivers in 1852, is a pencil note, written at a later date, a "Formula for Chivers-Shelley, thirty per cent.; Poe, twenty per cent.; mild idiosyncrasy, ten per cent.; gibbering idiosyncrasy, ten per cent.; raving mania, ten per cent.; sweetness and originality, ten per cent., equals 100 per cent. It is a G—, eight better concoction than is served up by any contemporary poetaster except A. C. S., W. W., R. K." Which would except to place Mr. Chivers with all his caries of idiosyncrasy and raving mania on the same shelf with Algernon Charles Swinburne, William Watson and Rudyard Kipling—a select, if slightly incompatible, triumvirate.

A girl entered a public library in Boston, U. S. A., of all places, and asked for "The Red Boat." No such novel could be discovered, and she was asked if she had the title right. "It's poetry, not a novel," she explained, and after much cogitation she suddenly remembered that what she really wanted was "The Ruby Yacht," by one Omar Khayyam.

Not everyone knows that H. G. Wells is one of the fairly numerous band of famous authors whose thoughts have been turned to literature by physical weakness. The son of a small tradesman who employed his leisure in playing cricket for his county, H. G. was to follow in the paternal footsteps—and he did—was apprenticed as a hosiery at Folkestone, on the Kentish coast. "If it had not been for the fact that my health failed," he has declared in reference to those days, "probably I should now be the proprietor of a little business over the door of which would be inscribed 'Herbert G. Wells, Cash Draper.'"

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Army and Navy Veterans will hold their regular meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in their new quarters, 514 Fort Street.

Judge Cayley, on March 31, reversed the finding of the lower court and quashed the conviction, ordering the return of the $50 to Mr. Jordan. From this judgment the Crown appeals. Ian Mackenzie appears for appellant, and R. L. Maitland for respondent.

HELD CONVEYANCE VOID
John Daniel O'Flynn, 2225 Sixteenth Avenue West, Vancouver, appeals from a decision of Judge Grant in County Court, given on January 16, 1924, that a conveyance of Vancouver property to appellant from his father was fraudulent and void, and that the property in question was liable for debts of the late John O'Flynn, who died in the Autumn of 1922. The action was brought by Mary Cummings, 323 Howe Street, and Robert Ellis, 315 Cordova Street, Vancouver, as creditors of the estate. E. A. Burnett appears for appellant, and J. Edward Bird for plaintiffs-respondent.

LOGGING SUIT INVOLVED
A. P. Allison, lumberman of Vancouver, appeals from a judgment of Mr. Justice Murphy, given February 18, 1924, whereby his suit for $7,000 against the Standard Lumber Company Limited was dismissed with costs, and a counter-claim of $300 allowed against plaintiff. Plaintiff sued for recovery of $7,000 for services rendered in overseeing log cutting operations at the request of the defendant company, and alleged the existence of an agreement whereby he was to get one-quarter of the net profits of such business while so employed. Summary appears for appellant, and E. P. Davis, K.C., for respondent.

SEKS RETURN OF MONEY
In the appeal of David C. Lew, respondent, versus Wing Lee, appellant, complaints of an order of the City of Vancouver, given April 7, whereby $5,000 of $6,700 lodged in court is ordered held pending further litigation, and $1,700, the balance, returned to defendant-appellant. The parties are out of partnership matters in litigation in which defendant paid money into court and then asked for its return. During the main action, Justice D. A. McDonald found for plaintiff in the sum of $5,490. Sir Chas. H. Tupper, K.C., appears for appellant, and F. S. Cunliffe for respondent.

HELD TWO DEEDS VOID
An appeal from a judgment of Mr. Justice Gregory, given May 5, 1924, upholding the plaintiffs, John Blinn and others, creditors of William Colvin Dice, and declaring that a double conveyance of Prince Rupert property to William Dice to his wife and from the latter to Nell Jeanette Peoples void is listed for hearing. Mr. Justice Gregory, on action being taken by plaintiffs, held that the conveyance was void and still liable for the debts of the appellant.

LIFE EMPLOYMENT
In the appeal of Henry Neville Charlton versus the B.C. Sugar Refining Company Limited, plaintiff-appellant complains of a judgment of Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald, given on January 11, that his action against the respondents for damages for dismissal must be dismissed. Plaintiff set up that during an elevator accident at the plant of defendant company in 1912 that he broke both legs and sustained other injuries, and that thereafter he was incapable of permanent recovery and alleged that the defendant company had promised under agreement to employ him at reasonable wages for the rest of his natural life. Plaintiff alternatively sought damages for the injuries of 1912. The claim was dismissed, and hence the appeal to higher court. J. Edward Bird and Arthur E. Kent appear for appellant, and R. P. Stockton for the defendant company.

PORT COQUITLAM LAND
Lots V to Y, subdivision section four, a parcel of land at Port Coquitlam, in favor of an appeal by the Port Coquitlam Terminal Company against a decision of Judge Howay under the Plans Cancellation Act, on February 9, 1924, His Honor Judge Howay in favor of the Port Coquitlam as to street abutments on the property in question. From this appeal is sought. H. S. Woods acts for appellants, and W. J. Whiteside, K.C., for respondents.

PLAINTIFF BACKED OUT
A decision of Mr. Justice Gregory that plaintiff could not recover the sum of $10,000 dropped when guaranteeing a note to the Dominion Bank is the subject of an appeal by George G. Bushby of Prince Rupert. Plaintiff-appellant brought action against Albert H. Tanner claiming damages for misrepresentation by which plaintiff was induced to enter upon a guaranty at the bank covering a loan to one, Josiah Rylands, then manager of the Rock-Island Hotel, in 1919. Plaintiff advanced the sum of $10,000 to this end. The action was dismissed, and from this decision appellant appeals to the higher court. A. M. Harper appears for appellants, and E. C. Mayers for respondent.

BEER CONVICTION APPEAL
Rex versus C. A. Murray is an appeal by defendant-appellant from a conviction and prison term on a charge of illegal beer sale, imposed by Magistrate Shaw, Vancouver, and upheld by Judge Cayley in County Court. The term of one month hard labor was imposed. W. M. McKay appears for the Crown and W. F. Brougham for appellant.

ONE MONTH HARD
A similar appeal and similar prison term is at stake in the matter of Rex versus Sam Roberts, wherein the defendant suffered the same fate at the hands of Judge Cayley, in the County Court at Vancouver, on an appeal from a similar conviction and term. The same counsel appear in this case.

FIRE MARSHAL APPEALS
An appeal of considerable interest is that of Assistant Fire Marshal L. H. Watson, New Westminster, against an order of Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald, and Judge Howay, the latter upholding an appeal by W. H. Howard against the destruction of the New Westminster Opera House as a dangerous fire hazard. In November, 1922, the fire marshal served respondents with notice to tear down or remove the building within sixty days as it was alleged to be liable to fire through disrepair and age. The appeal is by the assistant fire marshal from the decision of Judge Howay and W. J. Whiteside, K.C., for respondents.

DISPUTE COUNCILLOR'S SEAT
The election of Councillor John Moir, Ward Two, North Vancouver, is the subject of an appeal by Robert Russell Rose from a decision of Mr. Justice Morrison dismissing his petition that the seat was improperly secured. Petitioner, now appellant, asked the courts for a declaration that Councillor Moir should be unseated as he, it was asserted, was without the necessary land ownership to qualify under the act. The Councillor took his seat following the elections of January 19. The petitioner declared that Mr. Moir's closest interest in land was that of a registered charge against certain lots, and held this was not sufficient to qualify under the act. The action with costs and from this the appeal is sought. F. A. McDiarmid appears for the appellant, and A. C. Sutton for the respondent.

PROTEST AWARD MADE
Julia H. Ogden Adams appeals from a judgment of Judge Ruggles in favor of the law firm of Coburn & Duncan, Vancouver, in the sum of $187.99. Plaintiff was upheld in County Court for the balance of an account alleged to be due for services rendered. From this the appeal is taken. J. E. Jeremy appears for appellant.

ASKS EXTENSIVE DAMAGES
Clinty Gandy appeals from the dismissal of his claim against Edward Mercer by Mr. Justice D. A. Macdonald on February 19, 1924. Plaintiff claimed $10,000 for paralysis of the back which followed a motor collision in which he was injured. The action was dismissed with costs. W. A. Cantele appears for appellant, and E. C. Mayers for respondent.

STANLEY PARK SUIT
The ownership of precisely 0.95 of an acre of land in Stanley Park, Vancouver, is the subject of an appeal by Mrs. Maggie West against a decision of Mr. Justice Murphy given on December 11, 1923. The main action was brought by the City of Vancouver in the name of the Corporation and that of the Attorney General of Canada. Plaintiffs claimed the land upon which Mrs. West resided, and asserted they were the lessees and Crown grantees of the parcel in question. Mrs. West, however, claimed that she and her husband were the owners of the land, and from this decision Mrs. West, a widow, appeals.

SIR J. WILLISON ON CANADIAN WAYS

Is Interviewed on Arrival in Australia From This Port

An interesting statement on Canadian affairs made by Sir John Willison, the Canadian Journalist and author, who left here on the liner Niagara on her last outbound voyage, is given in the Sydney Morning Herald.

"It is hoped that Mr. Bruce's settlement treaty between Australia and Canada will be put into effect. Canada's annual expenditure on dried fruits must be large, and probably something can be done to assist Australian wines. We also use a lot of oranges and lemons. There is now an agitation for a woolen industry in Vancouver, and I think we will turn to wool manufacturing. There is a saying of the South in America that an industry has a tendency to move to the centre of supply."

PROHIBITION
"Prohibition in Canada has proved a failure. Five of the nine provinces have now rejected prohibition, and I predict that before long the others, with the exception of Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, will have rejected it. The five provinces that have rejected have a system of Government control, and the people are pretty well satisfied with it. There is now little excessive drinking, and there is not nearly so much home drinking as there was under prohibition. Under prohibition also bootlegging has become a great industry."

IMMIGRATION
"In immigration I confess that we have not done enough. Canada was too slow to take advantage of the Imperial scheme. Even the leaders of the Progressive Party, however, are now in favor of immigration. For some time I was president of the Canadian Colonization Association, the object of which was to place settlers on the lands in the West which were to be sold to railways. We have thirty million acres of land held by various colonization companies, absentee landlords, and such, within ten or fifteen miles of railways. These lands, upon which is imposed a wild land tax, we wish to throw open for settlement, and the association has proposed purchase with payment extending over a period of two years. There is no shadow of doubt about the future of Canada with regard to population and settlement. Just at the moment, however, owing to high cost of labor and of implements, the agricultural industries of the western provinces are passing through a period of drastic adjustment."

"Twelve or fifteen years ago sections of the West did not want British settlers. That has changed. The Englishman makes the best farmer, though he takes longer to succeed, but he does succeed. Canada has never been so British as it is at the present time. Twenty of thirty years ago every third man in Canada was in favor of a political union with the United States—now not one man in ten thousand. There is no possible chance of Canada becoming part of the United States."

SOLDIER SETTLEMENT
"Our soldier settlement scheme worked out very well. We spent $100,000,000, putting 30,000 soldiers on the land, making advances of $5,000 for implements and outfit. The proportion of failures would not average twenty per cent, and I doubt if we will lose any money. In some provinces repayments are actually in advance."

"The Canadian people were interested in the Singapore discussions, and I think that our interest in what other Dominions want as what Britain wants, and in this matter our view will be determined by Australia."

"In America's policy of 'greater exclusiveness' I think Canada is with the United States, and the whole continent is with Australia. In her White Australia policy, I think you would find the United States more prepared to enter war for White Australia than it was to enter the Great War. The feeling of kinship between British peoples and the United States is growing more and more close."

Gibbons May Get Another Chance At Heavyweight King

But Jack Doubts If He Has Earned Right To Return Match

Omaha, June 2.—Tommy Gibbons can have another chance at Jack Dempsey if a promoter can be found to stage the match, the champion's manager, who passed through here en route to New York, promised.

"I'm going to New York to arrange for two fights," Kearns said. "First we want to meet Harry Wills because we believe there is a greater public demand for a Wills-Dempsey fight."

"Then we want to give Gibbons another chance, particularly because he made very little money out of the Shelby fight."

Kearns expressed no surprise that Gibbons failed to knock out the Frenchman Saturday.

"Carpenter is a fast, clever boxer, and he probably could stay away from any boxer in the world for ten rounds, with the single exception of the champion," Kearns said.

DISGUSTED

Los Angeles, May 31.—"I'll meet Tommy Gibbons again any time, but do you think he's earned a right to a return match for the championship?"

Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, voiced this more or less disgusted reply when asked to-night if he was willing to enter the ring again with Georges Carpentier, the conqueror.

"To think that a fellow who is out of training and hasn't been working for months could come over here and beat Gibbons, who is presumed to be always in first-class shape, and then stand up with him for ten rounds just shows to me how far back Tommy has gone," Dempsey said.

"But if there is a promoter with enough nerve to stage the match, bring it on," Jack Dempsey said, "I'm ready."

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

By Billy Evans

QUESTIONS

1. This play recently broke up a game in which I was one of the players. There were runners on first and second, and one out, when the batter hit a hard ground ball to the shortstop. The ball tipped his glove, struck through his legs and then passed the runner who was originally ahead of runner, on his way to third. The umpire, after hesitating for some time, called the runner who was hit by the ball out for interference. Was that runner correct? It broke up the game—R. M.

2. Please give a decision on this play. Runner on first starts to steal second. Fielder receives the ball and second, and one out, when the batter hit a hard ground ball to the shortstop. The ball tipped his glove, struck through his legs and then passed the runner who was originally ahead of runner, on his way to third. The umpire, after hesitating for some time, called the runner who was hit by the ball out for interference. Was that runner correct? It broke up the game—R. M.

ANSWERS

1. After the fielder once makes a play on the ball and it gets away from him, the ball is regarded in play and no consideration is given the fact that it later hit base runner. The umpire was in error in calling the runner out for being hit by a batted ball.

2. The umpire was correct in ruling the runner safe. In a touch play the ball must be held. The moment the ball touched the ground it made void the previous touch.

Yarwood Scores Century In Game At Beacon Hill

Newcomer to Victoria on Albion's Eleven Carries His Bat For 102

At Beacon Hill Saturday the "Albions" defeated the Veterans by 87 runs. The Albions batted first and ran up the excellent total of 183 for 4 wickets and then declared.

Yarwood, a newcomer to Victoria, carried his bat for 102, whilst Knight (W.R.) Marshall and Norman also all got double figures.

The Veterans reached 101 before all being disposed of, out of which Thomas got 47. Warburton 17 and Profit were the only two to reach the ten wicket mark. Cooper and Knight bowled unchained, the former getting five for 41 and the latter the remaining wickets for 60. Cooper got to stage the match, the champion's manager, who passed through here en route to New York, promised.

"I'm going to New York to arrange for two fights," Kearns said. "First we want to meet Harry Wills because we believe there is a greater public demand for a Wills-Dempsey fight."

SHANKING AN IRON SHOT

Every golfer at some time or another has passed through the shanking period. Sometimes it lasts for a few shots while in quite a few cases it becomes chronic and takes a long time to cure.

The machine is usually the club which gives us the most trouble when the symptoms appear. The ball shoots off at right angles on account of the club being pushed into it. The ball is hit in the crotch or the shank instead of on the face of the club.

The shanked shot is caused by a player reaching a little for the ball, which is a bad habit to get into with an iron club. Reaching for the ball usually, when successful, produces a hook which is not so bad when playing a wooden club. Iron clubs should be played with a little fadeaway breaking a wooden club. Iron clubs should be played with a little fadeaway breaking a wooden club.

"LIGHTNIN'" A PLAY OF LAUGHS AND HEART THROBS, WILL OCCUPY STAGE AT ROYAL FOR THREE DAYS

Record Smashing Play, Which Thrilled New York for Three Years, Opens Here To-night With Joseph Jefferson and All-star Cast.

"Lightnin'" the play that has electrified the theatrical world with its run of three years in New York and nearly two years in Chicago will be presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre to-night, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The record-smasher will be introduced here by a special all-star cast headed by Thomas Jefferson, son of Joseph Jefferson, in the role of Lightnin' Bill Jones. It was organized especially for engagements in Detroit, Kansas City, St. Louis and other important cities. The production has been staged by Winchell Smith and like the other Golden comedy successes with which his name has been associated, "Lightnin'" is a play of laughs and heart throbs, introducing honest-hearted, red-blooded folks who really exist in everyday life.

Not since the days of the elder Jefferson's "Rip Van Winkle" has the stage known such a tender and sympathetic character as "Lightnin' Bill Jones—perverse, nicknamed because he never moves fast. Broadway audiences alternately laughed and wept with the eccentric old soldier who is so human and lovable, even in his faults.

Bill's wife and adopted daughter run a hotel on the State line between California and Nevada. The Nevada portion is filled with women guests who are establishing a legal residence for the purpose of obtaining Reno divorces. Bill runs errands about the place and tells yarns which give him the reputation of being the gibberish liar in the county. He drinks when he has the opportunity but even in his cups remembers that he has never broken a promise.

Bill's adopted daughter has been working in a lawyer's office in San Francisco and her employer, under the guise of generosity, has persuaded Mrs. Jones to sell the hotel to a corporation accepting stock as payment. The old man is about to affix his signature, when he is warned of fraud by a young neighbor and friend, John Marvin. In a burst of temper Mrs. Jones orders Bill to leave. Six months later she is disclosed in court suing for divorce.

The courtroom scene is rich in humor and pathos. The judge grants a divorce to an attractive young vaudeville actress who he, the judge, weds a few hours later. Bill Jones is in court as a witness in a lumber suit and learns for the first time of the divorce suit against himself. Adroit cross-examination by Bill and his lawyer friend confuses the star witness and the scheme to get the hotel is exposed. Bill's wife begs forgiveness and Bill, always long on forgiveness, is easily persuaded, particularly as it doesn't cost any physical effort.

Others prominent are Bessie Bacon, Charles E. Evans, Margaret Mosier, Stuart Fox, Frank Thornton, Walter Dickinson, Helena Phillips, Felix Haney, Eugene Kane, Mart E. Healey, Harry Maitland, Johnnie LeFevre, J. Harry Jenkins, Maguerite Miller, Grace Chappelle, Peggy Shipman, Elva Nelson, Kathryn Mallory and Margaret Lapsley.

White Man Lived With Eskimos and Made Arctic Film

"Nanook of the North," the remarkable Pathé feature, showing at the Capitol Theatre this week, is the first motion picture to depict the actual life of the Eskimo, it being a truthful and vivid story of Father and Mother Eskimo and all the little Eskimos at home.

It was made for Revillon Freres by Robert J. Flaherty, engineer and explorer on the Sir William Mackenzie expeditions in the barren lands of the northeast coast of Hudson's Bay, and described by him in published records of the American Geographical Society.

Between 1912 and 1918, Mr. Flaherty made five expeditions, covering the Ungava Peninsula and parts of Baffin's Land, guided by Eskimos. He accompanied them as they traveled with their families, winter and summer, subsisting wholly upon their catches of fish, seals and walrus; sheltered by their tents of skins in summer and their snow igloos in winter, built at the end of a day of dog-sledge travel, the spirit thermometer registering 54 degrees below zero; Fahrenheit.

All these activities are shown in "Nanook of the North," which Mr. Flaherty photographed, developed, printed and projected in the frozen, barren North. Despite the hardships and handicaps of having no laboratory in which to work, "Nanook of the North" is said to be a veritable work of photography, with none of the glare and blur that so frequently mar pictures photographed in the snow country.

Chooses Stage In Preference To Profession

Cullen Landis to be at Columbia in "Midnight Alarm"

Fate plays queer tricks with men's destinies. Cullen Landis, who will be seen at the Columbia Theatre to-day in a thrilling role in "The Midnight Alarm," the Vitaphone, spectacle, furnishes an excellent example of Fate's whims.

Landis was destined by his parents to be a physician, but he quickly upset their plans when he grew up by showing a great liking for the stage, for sports, particularly boxing. After studying to be a physician for two years in a Middle Western University, he gave it up in disgust and began to pursue his theatrical ambitions seriously. He went into motion pictures and by his abilities as an actor and through his unusual physical prowess soon became one of the leading stars of the screen.

Landis will be seen in another fighting role in "The Midnight Alarm." His part is that of Chaser, a likeable young crook, who falls in love with Sparkie, a waif, and helps to establish her identity as the long-missing heiress. Alice Cathoun plays the part of Sparkie. Percy Marmont will be seen as a fire captain, while Joseph Kilgour is the heavy.

One of the most realistic fire scenes is contained in the picture and is a vital part in the sequence. A large office building was completely burned down in making the scenes which furnish tremendous thrills to the spectator.

Coat of Arms Owner Routed By Film Star

John Gilbert Dismissesirate and Protester Foreigner

While John Gilbert was working in "Truxton King," the Fox production which is now showing at the Playhouse, he chatted with the director, Jerome Storm, during a rest between sets. They were about to begin a scene in the throne room of Graustark, which is the locale of the George Barr McCutcheon story. Gilbert pointed to a coat of arms on the velvet curtains that formed the background.

"The trunks had gone astray. Half an hour before show time the stage manager looked over the lay-out and howled because there was no coat of arms on the curtains of the throne room. Props started to comb the town; the best he could find was a coat of arms in a rare store window display. The owner of the shop had gone out for a minute. Props scribbled a note, saying that they would bring the window display back when the performance was over and rushed back to the theatre with it.

The owner, a foreigner, was much incensed at the high handed methods of the prop man. He waited until he could get somebody to take charge of the store in his absence and hastened to the playhouse in search of his display. The show had already started when there was a commotion at the stage door, and I heard Props say, "If you wait till the act is over I'll give your property back to you." But the cigar store owner kept on after what he wanted. Props had told me how he got the royal insignia and I guessed what was wrong. When the show opened reached me I had drawn the sword I wore in the part.

Diving Venus is Coming to Royal On Thursday Next

Louise Fazenda Rivals de Milo and de Medici in Beauty of Form

The "Venus de Milo" and the "Venus de Medici" have long held a place of international favor among the art critics, but Thomas H. Ince has just put out a "Diving Venus" who promises to put the international beauties on a back shelf.

She appears in Ince's latest comedy special, "The Galloping Fish," which will be shown at the Royal Theatre on Thursday next for an engagement of three days, and does some remarkable diving stunts. And her name is Louise Fazenda!

Screen audiences have laughed themselves into hysterics many times over the comedy stunts pulled off by Miss Fazenda in "Sennet comedies. In the Ince comedy for the first time they are introduced to Louise, the water nymph.

With a trained seal, which has the title role of the production, the "Diving Venus" disports herself in a glass tank act and an Annette Kellerman bathing suit that is an optical delight. The act is the opening gun of a series of uproarious sequences that fill seven celluloid reels with fast action and hilarious laughter.

Ince proved his mettle as a comedy maker last year with "The Hot Tent," "The Galloping Fish" is twice as funny as "The Hot Tent," with a sparkling story and an all-star cast of comedians that would bring laughs from King Tut himself.

The plot is woven about the adventures of "Venus" when she tries to hide her seal from a sheriff who is attempting to serve an attachment on the animal for a bill which the diving beauty has failed to pay. A love torn young husband who has dropped into the theatre seeking consolation after his first quarrel with his bride, gets mixed up in the plot with hilariously funny results that wind up in a spectacular flood.

Syd Chaplin, Ford Sterling, Chester Conklin, John Stepping, Lucille Ricksen and Truly Shattuck support Louise Fazenda and "Freddie" the seal in one of the cleverest comedies which has yet been offered. Del Andrews directed the picture, which is a First National release.

"Maloc!" That's what they call Buster Keaton in France. In Spain Buster is known as "Ze-phonie."

In Poland they call him "Zybako." In Czech-Slovakia, Moravia and the northern part of Hungary bordering on the Carpathian mountains he is known as "Pyryzmaya."

A Tempting Salad for any occasion

Try this luscious salad for the busy day luncheon or the formal dinner.

Grapefruit and Orange Salad, made this way:

Cut the pulp of a Sun-kist Grapefruit into cubes, separating it carefully from the white tissue. Slice the pulp of a Sun-kist Orange. Arrange on lettuce leaves; garnish with celery tips. Serve with any desired dressing.

It's wonderfully good and because of its beneficial salts and acids and abundant vitamins, it is very healthful, too.

lono." This is doubtless due to the fact that Buster's comedies did much to cheer up the Hungarian troops just before the battle of Pyryzmaya. On the other hand, in Bulgaria and certain parts of Montenegro adjacent to Cetinje, the capital, Buster is called "Koldelavto."

Siamese film fans have playfully dubbed Buster "Kofreto," a local allusion.

Only a short distance away in Cochín China, Buster has still another name, "Wong-Wong," which, although it has never been adequately translated, is sufficient to send the natives into paroxysms of laughter.

The negroes of Liberia have still another amusing term for Buster. It is "Ka-zunk." An American missionary was much mystified when he first heard the natives shouting "Ka-zunk! Ka-zunk!" when he first attended a motion picture show in the settlement of Congordo in northeastern Liberia. But when Buster appeared on the screen the native expressions were easily explainable.

In Iceland Buster is almost a national hero. He is called "Glo-Go" and his picture is in almost every school south of Snordrup Pass.

By a peculiar coincidence the natives of the Falkland Islands and the Tibetans of Lhasa have almost the same nickname for Buster. In the Falklands Buster is known as "Rowdy-dow" while in Tibet he is called "Dowdy-row."

On the island of Yap the light-house keeper and the proprietor of the cable station anchorage both call Buster "the frozen faced laugh maker," which, as a matter of fact, is a literal translation of Buster's nicknames in the other countries mentioned above.

Malec, or Ka-zunk, or Dowdy-row, or just plain Buster is at the Capitol Theatre this week in his latest Metro comedy, "Sherlock Jr." It is a Joseph M. Schenck presentation, and was written by Jean Haves, Clyde Bruckman and Joe Mitchell. Keaton himself directed, while Fred Gabouri was art-director, and the photographers were Byron Houck and Elgin Lesley.

TO NAME DIRECTORS OF HOSPITAL BOARD

City Now to Have Representation From Own Personnel

For the first time in thirty years the city council will be in a position to choose its representation from among their own membership representatives of the city on the directorate board of the Royal Jubilee Hospital. In 1894 by an amendment of the hospital's incorporation act of 1890, in consideration of the submission of a by-law for $25,000, the Legislature approved of an agreement between the board and the council by which direct representation would be given to the city. By clause 8 of the act the council was barred from electing its own personnel, and also no medical men could sit on the board. The embargo on doctors was raised some years ago, and for several years now the Victoria Medical Association has had three members on the directorate. It was not, however, until the private bill of last year that the embargo on the city council members was withdrawn, and this is the first opportunity which has occurred since that time for the council to choose its representation from the aldermen.

In past years several city representatives on the board have been men active in municipal life, but not until after their retirement from the council board. In the one year that the late Ex-Mayor Porter was out of the council, he was a director, but on returning to the council, he had to retire from the board.

It is expected that the choice tonight, if the aldermen is chosen out of the five members to be elected, will be from the personnel of the health committee.

The Council has not yet acted on the invitation of the advisory board of St. Joseph's Hospital to appoint a director representing it.

GUILD OF HEALTH

Rev. T. E. Rowe returned to this city last week after three months' absence. Mr. Rowe will lecture under the guild auspices on Thursday evening next at 8 o'clock in the schoolroom of Christ Church Cathedral.

POLA NEGRI IN GRIPPING ROLE OF CLEO IN NEW PARAMOUNT SCREEN PRODUCTION OF "MEN"

Dominion Feature This Week is Hailed as True-to-Life Picture of Modern France; Greatest Role of Pola's Career

Characters from life, a varied and interesting gallery of faces drawn from the originals in France, will be seen in Dimitri Buchowetzki's production for Paramount, "Men," which stars Pola Negri and opens to-day at the Dominion Theatre.

Written several years ago by the director himself, the story of "Men" was woven around a group of people who lived in the south of France. Like every other group, when studied closely, their lives yielded incidents of the most dramatic nature. Co-ordinated by the skill of Dimitri Buchowetzki, these incidents are made to tell the story in "Men."

The story opens in a cheap cafe in a southern French port. Cleo, the waitress (Pola Negri), is the brilliant flower which attracts many customers. Her father, a musician, provides dance music for the cafe.

One night as Cleo stands in the doorway, her eyes suddenly meet those of a handsome stranger who is watching her in admiration. She blushes and retires to the cafe where the stranger, played by Gino Corrado, comes to dine. She is captivated by his winning manners.

The stranger meets Francois (Monti Collins), an elderly friend of Cleo's father. Realizing the old man's poverty, the stranger offers him a bribe if he will influence Cleo to go to Paris. Francois tells her that there is a great opportunity for her to become a dancer in the big city and the two go away together. At a station, the stranger appears as if by accident, and rides to Paris with them. In the Paris station he gives Francois his money and tells him to disappear.

Cleo, realizing she is alone, is frightened but the stranger promises to take her to his sister's house. She goes trustingly and is taken to a magnificent mansion where she is introduced to a nobleman. The stranger dines luxuriously and disappears—forever.

Betrayed by the man who had first inspired her heart with love, Cleo is turned adrift by the nobleman. In a mean shop while she is sitting lost in despair, she is ridiculed by Georges Kleber who, at the head of a number of companions, has been making a night of it. Kleber, who is portrayed by Robert W. Frazer, rouses the girl's spirit with his remarks and she springs to her feet, pouring forth a wild tirade against him and all his kind.

Years pass and Cleo, the most successful dancer in France, is sought by a brilliant circle of men. She holds them all at arm's length. Among the men who seek to win her affections is Georges Kleber who has become secretary of a wealthy banking corporation. His chief, Henri Duval, is Cleo's most ardent admirer. Robert Edeson plays Duval. He brings the weight of his great wealth to bear upon the dancer who laughs at him.

Treating all with her scorn, Kleber is finally driven to steal a sum of money from the bank to cater to Cleo's whims. The theft is discovered and with the police searching for Kleber, Cleo realizes for the first time that she loves him. Duval also realizes it in a scene of terrific tension, strikes a bargain with Cleo. In return for Kleber's safety, he demands Cleo's love.

Finding love only to have it taken from her, Cleo passes through a period of despair which is presented very powerfully by Pola Negri's magnificent acting. The battle between the two men for possession of the girl is a dramatic finale.

Green Room Notes

The Summer season is hot encouraging for theatrical production, and there is a notable slackening off in activities. The new drama "London Life" by Arnold Bennett and Edward Knoblock is to be produced by Basil Dean at Drury Lane, London, England, this month.

Contrary to the belief of many, "The Bird of Paradise" was not the first drama from the facile pen of Richard Walton Tully. Prior to his completion of this love tale of the tropics, he had already written and seen produced "The Rose of the Rancho," "Omar, the Tent-maker," "The Strenuous Life," "Cup, the Cowpunch," "Juanita of San Juan," and other stage plays. Tully will produce a screen version of his masterpiece, "The Bird of Paradise," this Summer in the Hawaiian Islands.

The recent deciphering of the inscriptions found near the site of the banding down of the Ten Commandments from Sinai has excited great interest, and Adolph Zukor of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has instructed his European representative, P. N. Brinch, to offer aid to Professor Hubert Grimme towards further discoveries. The hunt for the Twin Tablets of Moses is to be renewed, with this powerful picture company's co-operation, in Palestine and Sinai. It took Grimme sixteen years to solve the riddle of the carvings discovered by Professor Flinders Petrie at the foot of the Holy Mount. They were in a character unknown. With infinite patience the Minister professor slowly proved it, letter by letter, to be primitive Hebrew—a median stage twist Egyptian hieroglyph and the writing of the Jews.

Is Lawrence Weber announces that he is prepared to keep all of his attractions now in New York will into the Summer. "Moonlight" at the Longacre in which Julia Sanderson is starring is nearing the sixth month of its run and continues to attract considerable out of town patronage. This musical comedy is expected to continue well through the month of July and is scheduled to begin its work tour in Philadelphia on August 11, with the cast headed by Julia Sanderson. "Cobra," Martin Brown's virile drama, is drawing capacity business at the Hudson, and the splendid performance given by Judith Anderson, Ralph Morgan and Louis Calhern, have evoked un stinted praise from critics at home and abroad. "Cobra" is evidently in for a long run.

"Little Jessie James," the merriest musical comedy of them all, is scheduled to remain at the Little Theatre, at least until August 1, at which time it will have had one year's run. "Little Jessie James" will be represented by four companies next season.

Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, announces that J. Warren Kerrigan has been engaged to play the title role in "Captain Blood, Buccaneer," the picturization of Rafael Sabatini's romantic novel of days when pirates sailed the Spanish Main, a story which appeared in serial form last year in The Times.

The selection of Mr. Kerrigan was made on the results of a canvass of motion picture editors of daily newspapers, of exhibitors, fans and the Vitagraph sales force. Of the several thousand letters sent in to Vitagraph Mr. Kerrigan was suggested more frequently than any other actor who approached the type of the singularly romantic Peter Blood.

Peter Blood is a young Irish physician and adventurer who had spent several years in the continental wars of the latter part of the seventeenth century and who is wrongly convicted of treason following the Duke of Monmouth's western insurrection against King James II. He is sentenced as a slave to the Barbadoes. A Spanish galleon attacks the West Indies colony and Blood and his fellow rebel convicts capture the ship and sail to Tortuga, the rendezvous of the pirates. He leaves behind Arabella Bishop, the niece of the English governor, and is selected by his comrades to command a pirate fleet. His name becomes a terror to all who sail the seas. He joins the French flag and is tricked by the avaricious admiral. When King James whose rule had made him an outlaw, is succeeded by a new government which begins war on France Blood enlists under the British flag and in a terrific sea fight

WATSON, HERE'S A DEEP ONE!—Has the Arctic current disappeared? Or has its course been changed by some upheaval of the earth? That's the puzzle facing scientists, and the United States Coast Guard has sent out Lieutenant E. H. Smith (shown above in uniform) to play "Sherlock" in this sea mystery. He is shown here testing the temperature of the sea, which, in a huge section, has raised several degrees, while the usual number of icebergs is dwindling away. Weather of two continents may be effected, it is thought.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggly's Letter

(Copyright, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

By Howard R. Garis

"Uncle Wiggly, I am going away," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy to the rabbit gentleman in the hollow stump bungalow one day.

"What! Going away? Not forever, I hope!" said Mr. Longears, and he felt very sad.

"Oh, no, indeed. Just for a few days," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. "I am going to pay a little visit to Mrs. Twisttail, the lady pig. And while I am gone, Uncle Wiggly, perhaps you would like one of your gentleman friends to come and visit you."

"Say! That would be nice! I never thought of that!" laughed the rabbit uncle. "I'll invite Uncle Butter, the zont and Mr. Whitewash, the polar bear gentleman, and—"

"Hold on, if you please!" chuckled Nurse Jane. "I think two are enough. If you invite any more the bungalow will be a sorry looking sight when I get home. I know what you men will do—never wash the dishes, never make the beds, and as for sweeping and dusting—well, I needn't speak of that."

"Don't worry!" said Uncle Wiggly. "I'll keep the bungalow neat and clean. But I wasn't going to invite any one."

"Go ahead—write the letter, and be quick!" growled the Wolf. So Uncle Wiggly sat down with his fountain pen and a bit of white birch bark for paper. The Wolf sat near him. Uncle Wiggly started to write.

"Dear me!" exclaimed the rabbit, "this fountain pen, it's stuck. I guess it won't write. I must shake it. He shook it and shook a big blot of black ink on the Wolf's white vest. Uncle Wiggly did it on purpose, too, though he pretended it was an accident.

"I say! Look here!" howled the Wolf, who was very proud of his white vest. "Don't do that! You're inking me."

"Yes, and I'm going to ink you more!" shouted the bunny. With that he shook some ink from the fountain pen in the Wolf's face. Then, before the bad chap could wipe that away, the rabbit shook some ink in the Wolf's left eye.

"Oh, I can't see!" My eyes are full of ink," howled the Wolf, and bawling and banging himself against the walls, out of the bungalow the bad chap ran to find some water to wash the ink out of his eyes.

"I guess I don't need to write a letter now," laughed the bunny as the Wolf ran farther and farther off. "He won't come back to take me away. I'll be here when my friends come. And soon Uncle Butter arrived with Mr. Whitewash, and they said the rabbit was very brave."

The three friends had a fine time in the bungalow while Nurse Jane was gone, and it was a week before the Wolf got the ink out of his eyes. And, if umbrella doesn't try to hide in the rubber boat when the rain drops want to tickle it in the ribs, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly passing the cake.

SERIAL STORY

The Black Gang

By CYRIL MCNEILE, "Sapper"

Author of "Bull-dog Drummond," "No Man's Land," etc.

"I thank you, sir," said the clergyman, with a charming smile. "I'm so terribly forgetful—over matches. As a matter of fact I don't generally smoke before lunch, but I've had such a distressing morning that I feel I must have a cigarette just to soothe my nerves."

"By jove! that's bad," remarked Hugh. "Bath water cold, and all that?"

"Nothing so trivial, I fear," said the other. "No; a poor man who has been with me since ten has just suffered the most terrible blow. I could hardly have believed it possible in business premises were wrecked by a bomb last night."

"You don't say so," murmured Hugh, sinking into a chair, and at the table opposite Peter Darrell opened one eye.

"All his papers—everything—gone. And it has hit me, too. Quite a respectable little sum of money—over a hundred pounds, gathered together for the restoration of the old oak-chamber in my church—blown to pieces by this unknown miscreant. It's hard, sir, it's hard. But this poor fellow's loss is greater than mine so I must not complain. To the best of my poor ability I have been helping him to bear his misfortune with fortitude and strength."

The clergyman took off his spectacles and wiped them, and Drummond stole a lightning glance at Darrell. The faintest shrug of his shoulders indicated that the latter had heard, and was as much of a man as Hugh. That this was the Reverend Theodosius Longmoor was now obvious, but what a charming, courteous old gentleman! It seemed impossible to associate guilt with such a delightful person, and, if so, they had made a bad mistake. It was not the hunchback who had thrown the bomb; they were up another blind alley.

For a while Hugh chatted with him about the outrage, then he glanced at his watch.

"Nearly time for lunch, I think," said the clergyman. "Pardon me, would you give a lonely old man the pleasure of your company?"

"Very nice of you, but I'm expecting my wife," said Hugh. "She's here at one, and now it's a quarter past. Perhaps you'll lunch with us?"

"Charming," said the clergyman, taking a note which a page-boy was handing to him on a tray. "Charming." He glanced through the note, and placed it in his pocket. "The ladies, bless them! so often keep us waiting."

"I'll just go and ring up," said Drummond. "She may have changed her mind."

"Another prerogative of their sex," he said. "I'm sure you'll find them. I'll be here when you return. I'll be here when you return. I'll be here when you return."

"I don't know, Peter," he answered after a while. "I've got to think this out. I know it's what we've been hoping for. It's what we've been hoping for. It's what we've been hoping for."

"You're perfectly certain, Hugh?" said Peter, who was still far from convinced.

take had been made somewhere, when Hugh returned looking a little worried.

"Can't make it out, Peter," he said anxiously. "Just got through to Denny, and Phyllis left half an hour ago to come here."

"Probably doing a bit of shopping old man," answered Peter reassuringly. "I say, Hugh, we're bloomed over this show."

Hugh glanced across at the table where the clergyman was sitting, and suddenly Peter found his arm gripped with a force that made him cry out. He glanced at Hugh, and that worthy was staring at the clergyman with a look of speechless amazement on his face. Then he swung around, and his eyes were blazing.

"Peter!" he said tensely. "Look at him. The one trick that gives him away every time. Blommed, have we? Great heavens above, isn't it Carl Peterson?"

A little dazedly Darrell glanced at the clergyman, who was still reading the Church Times, but with his left hand he was drumming a ceaseless tattoo on his knee.

"Rot, Hugh!" Peter turned a little irritably from his covert inspection of the Reverend Theodosius Longmoor. "You've got Peterson on the brain. Why, the old bird is no more like him than my boot."

"Nevertheless, it's Peterson," answered Drummond doggedly. "Don't look at him, Peter; don't let him think we're talking about him on any account. I admit he bears not the slightest resemblance to our one and only Carl, but he's no more unlike him than the Comte de Guy was that time in Paris. It's just that one little trick he can never shake off—that tapping with his left hand on his knee—that made me spot him."

"Well, granted you're right," conceded Darrell grudgingly. "What do we do now, sergeant-major?"

Drummond lit a cigarette thoughtfully before he replied. Half-hidden by a large luncheon party which was just preparing to move into the restaurant, he stole another look at the object of his remarks. With an expression of intense benevolence the Reverend Theodosius was chatting with an elderly lady, and on Drummond's face, as he turned back, was a faint grin of admiration. Truly in the matter of disguises the man was a living marvel.

"I don't know, Peter," he answered after a while. "I've got to think this out. I know it's what we've been hoping for. It's what we've been hoping for. It's what we've been hoping for."

"You're perfectly certain, Hugh?" said Peter, who was still far from convinced.

"Absolutely, old man," answered Drummond gravely. "The clergyman over there is Carl Peterson, late of the Elms, Godalming. And the game has begun again."

Darrell gave a short laugh as he noted the gleam in his leader's eyes. "I'm thinking," he remarked slyly, "that this time the game is going to make us go all out."

"Well, that's better," grinned Hugh. "Well, that's better. To our collection, Peter, and then we'll present the whole damned bunch to the Zoo. And, in the meantime, he shall lunch with us when Phyllis arrives, and prattle on theology to an appreciative audience. Incidentally it will appeal to his sense of humor—there's no difficulty about recognizing us."

"Yes," agreed Peter, "we start one up there. He doesn't know that we've spotted him. I wonder where the diamonds come in, Hugh?"

"Darned intimately, from what I know of the gentleman. But that's only one of several little points that require clearing up. And in the next few days, Peter, my boy—we will clear them up."

"Or he cleared up ourselves," laughed Darrell. "Look out, he's coming over."

They turned as the clergyman crossed the lounge towards them. "Jolly old tum-tum beginning to shout for nourishment," said Hugh with an affable smile as he joined them. "My wife should be here at any moment now, Mr.—"

"Longmoor is my name," said the clergyman, beaming on them. "It is very charming of you to take such compassion on a lonely old man."

"Staying here all by yourself?" asked Drummond politely.

"No; my daughter is with me. The dear child has been my constant companion ever since my beloved wife's death some years ago."

He polished his glasses, which had become a little misty, and Drummond made notes indicative of sympathy.

"You wouldn't believe the comfort she has been to me. In these days, when it seems to me that the modern girl thinks of nothing but dancing and frivolity, it is indeed a blessing to find one who, while preserving her winsome sense of humor, devotes her life to the things that really matter. In our recent tour in Austria—I beg your pardon, you said—"

"Nothing," answered Drummond quietly. "You have been to Austria, you say?"

"Yes; we have just returned from a visit to the famine-stricken area," replied the clergyman. "Most interesting—but most terribly sad. You know—I don't think I caught your name."

"Drummond, Captain Drummond," answered Hugh mechanically. "And this is Mr. Darrell, I think I have had the pleasure of making your daughter's acquaintance already. She was manufacturing woollen garments for the Austrians down here, and I retrieved an elusive ball of wool for her."

STOCKS QUIET BUT FIRM

New York, June 2 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—The outstanding news item which was disclosed over the holidays was the survey issued by the Federal Reserve Bank, in which the opinion was expressed that a turn for the better in general business was near at hand. This, of course, was a very significant statement. Considering the source from which issued and found reflection in a steady opening in the stock market. Final prices showed, however, little change from the levels which prevailed at the closing of activities last week. Active regarding the outlook on the tax legislation in the near future, constructive light. Some attention attached to the gasoline cuts in Minnesota, but this was taken rather as a local condition. In view of the extent and duration of the decline, we believe that the stock market as a general proposition is in a pretty well liquidated condition, and therefore should respond to any news to any fresh constructive developments.

WALL STREET MARKET QUIET BUT FIRM

New York, June 2 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—The only outstanding characteristic of the stock market to-day has been its extreme dullness. Prices were a shade lower during the first half-hour, but later a few strong features were noticeable. C.P.R. sold ex-dividend 2 1/2 per cent, and recovered most of it. Baldwin Locomotive and North American were other strong stocks. North American's earnings are better than last year and Baldwin reports increased operations with prospects of further betterment. The extreme dullness would seem to indicate that liquidation had been completed, although there is no definite sign that the turn has come. Washington developments are not wholly favorable. It is thought the president will sign the tax bill in the immediate future, but there is some opposition, mainly from a prominent senator, to the adjournment of Congress at the end of the week. The declaration of the regular quarterly dividend on American Wool common created a bearish note, as there had been more or less uncertainty for some time past regarding this. It is the opinion of some good Wall Street observers that the stock market is oversold.

SHARP BREAK IN CHICAGO GRAINS

Chicago, Ill., June 2 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Wheat: June scenery is too much for the bulls in wheat, and there was little support, while considerable liquidation is evident. Stop losses being a factor on the downturn which followed a steady market early. What few buyers there attracted little attention and brought few buying orders. There was evidently buying of October wheat at Winnipeg against sales of July here. The milling demand was fairly good, and estimates of exports range from 727,000,000 to 738,000,000 bushels against 755,000,000 year ago. These figures had little effect, the general situation is unchanged, but the market has a new load on it, which will take time to digest as well as better investment demand.

Corn: Held firm compared to wheat. With unfavorable crop conditions tending to modify bearish views. More reasonable weather is in prospect, which may increase the selling pressure should the cash demand continue slow. Primary receipts were 1,537,000 bushels vs. 735,000 bushels a year ago, but increase was due to better Duluth stock of corn already accounted for in the primary run. With better weather it will be hard to hold prices. Oats: There was good demand for cash oats with cash interests credited with buying. Receipts small at sixty-one cars, crop estimate for June ranged from 1,252,000,000 to 1,335,000,000 bushels.

Chicago, June 2 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—There was real weakness in wheat futures throughout to-day's session. Selling came from commission houses and represented sales on stop orders and professional selling. There have been many tips out during the past month to buy wheat for a good advance and the technical position of the market has been weakened by the addition to the ranks of the bulls of a moderately large public following. Corn showed weakness, resistance to the selling in wheat and closed only a small fraction below the opening. Traders have been as bullish on corn as they were on wheat, and the fact that corn is in a relatively strong position. Crop reports on corn, too, indicate that conditions are not the best. The trend seems downward in all grains for the present.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Winnipeg, June 2—There was not much feature in the wheat market here to-day, with the bulk of the buying coming out early from shippers and exporters, which carried prices upward about 1/2 cent above Saturday's close, July touching 107 1/2. The advance, however, was not held, and when the buying demand fell off, prices at Chicago values worked lower, closing 1/2 to 3/4 cent below Saturday's closing.

Opposition Paper at Nanaimo Endorses Minister of Mines

In connection with the provincial election campaign in Nanaimo, the Nanaimo Herald, which is not politically friendly to the Government, says: "This is one time when the community interests of the city should come before party ties. The mines are again working black times, and unless the coal industry receives more protection there will be still more black times. We disagreed with the leader of the Opposition in his objection to a provincial duty on fuel oil, and stated at the time that he was putting a grievous handicap on the next Conservative candidate who contested Nanaimo. It is a purely local question, but it outweighs all others at this juncture, and Mr. Sloan must be given full credit for the stand he took and the measure he succeeded in getting through the Legislature. The time has not yet arrived for a full argument of this question, but it will have its effect on the result of the election. The only point we are seeking to make in this article is the danger in the present position to the best interests of Nanaimo and to suggest that it would be infinitely better for the moderates of all parties to sink their political differences in a common cause."

Radio Club to Hear Address On Development

W. J. Frampton, one of Victoria's radio experts, will address a meeting of the Radio Club of this city next Friday evening at the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Frampton's discourse will be in connection with the development and change which the radio and wireless world has witnessed in the past twenty years.

Jack McKay will have his five-tube neodyne receiving set at the meeting.

The campaign for new members has met with surprising results. Officials believe that the club will be one of the strongest of its kind in the Pacific Northwest before next Fall.

LOCAL ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY CLOSES MUSIC SEASON

Fine Performance is Given at High School Auditorium Will Lead to Improved Production of Orchestral Works Here

What may be said to have characterized the close of the music season was the programme given by the Victoria Orchestral Society, in its final Winter concert on Saturday evening at the High School Auditorium. It may be said, too, that this organization of eager and aspiring instrumentalists, numbering over forty members, is destined in the natural order of the city's advance in arts, to lead the way, and to become the harpinger of a general betterment in the sphere of orchestral compositions. Since last heard, thanks no doubt to their faithful and persevering conductor, Drury Pryce, a distinct advance has been made, and it is hoped the time will soon arrive when this orchestra can demonstrate that it can stand without fear or shame in the presence of any that

Notice to Breeders of Livestock

Mr. Erick Bowman, the discoverer of The Bowman Remedy, claims that in treating 70,000 cattle in the United States the results have been successful in 98% of the case treated.

Are your dairy cows and heifers causing you trouble? Are you obtaining results in calves and milk that satisfy you? Do your cows (according to your knowledge or their capacity) produce as much milk as they should—or are you marking time and feeding a number of boards that should be sent to the butcher?

These are matters that can be put right. Delays are fatal. Why not consult

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Victoria Times, June 2, 1899

An expedition headed by Edward H. Harriman, who finances the party, arrived here to-day on the way to Alaska, where they will cruise in the steamer George W. Elder. Twenty-five of the party are scientists. Mr. W. Fleet Robertson, Provincial Mineralogist, will collect the mineral exhibits for the display to be staged by the Province at the Paris Exhibition next year.

At a meeting of the Executive Council last night it was decided to send Mr. Justice Irving to Atlin as a commissioner, to settle mineral claim disputes there.

Auxiliary of the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital will be in attendance at David Spencer's Limited, near the Douglas Street entrance each day this week from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. to receive membership fees for 1923 which are now due. This arrangement has been made in order to relieve Mrs. Hermann Robertson, the membership convener, of some of the arduous work of collecting these dues and it is hoped that members will take advantage of the opportunity.

Canada, at any rate, now has in its confines.

The programme opened with Mozart's overture, "Magic Flute" (the opera of that name was first produced at Vienna in 1791. Mozart himself conducting), which proved an augury of the excellent doing of the orchestra in their three numbers, albeit Mozart's exquisitely lyric phrases could have been at time better prompted. In the "Symphony No. 1 in C" (Beethoven), a familiar work, but not the biggest and best of the great Beethoven symphonies, its symphonic conception, its structural amplitude, its compelling moods, and forcible distinctions were admirably read by Drury Pryce, and his forces responded with much credit alike to players and conductor. If fault is to be found, and one does not expect perfection in an organization in its initial stages, it was in the similarity of tone and in its unruffled evenness of production. There was lack of contrast and color and in climax and inspirational effect a greater moulding of its adjustments—generally associated in such productions, could be the more desirable. It would be useless to deny, however, that at times Mr. Pryce made the orchestra the pianist, sensitive and responsive instrument that it is, and there was much to commend in the clarity and luster of the string tone, aided by the adherence to the principle of uniform bowing, mellowness of the woodwind and brass sections. The rendition of the concluding number, the Greig Suite, "Sigurd Jovallfar" (The Crusader), was particularly praiseworthy in the maintenance of rhythmic precision so essential to a finished interpretation of important composition.

THE SOLOISTS

The society had the assistance of Mrs. Longfield, contralto, and Harold Taylor, cellist, late of the Portland Symphony orchestra.

Mrs. Longfield on any programme is a foregone pleasure. She sings her songs, not only with careful and thoughtful preparation, but she imparts the true sense of their variety of mood and character that stamps her as one of the "worth while" singers in all western parts. It must be said, however, that of late she seems to be departing from the beautiful and luscious tones of her middle and lower registers, known so well, and one wonders if she is not seeking entrance to the threshold of the mezzo-soprano. Of the three songs of her selection the one that pleased the best was Landan Ronald's beautiful setting, "O Lovely Night," in which the lower tones of the singer were beautiful, and made a direct appeal to her listeners. The cello obligato by Mr. Taylor in this was enhancingly effective, and well played. "Spring's Triumph," by the local composer, Douglas Macey, and William Stickie's "Ah! My Beloved," were her other two numbers. Of the former Mr. Macey has given us a delightful song, but we are not yet altogether convinced or quite reconciled as to whether the music is of a Spring-like character or not. Mrs. Longfield had to augment two further songs in response to the repeated requests of her satisfied hearers, giving "O Soul of Mine" (Ethel Barnes), and "A Chain of Roses" (Herman Lohr).

Harold Taylor in his initial performance before a Victoria audience won instant success. He is a cellist of sterling worth, and is an acquisition to local music circles. His tone is broad and of good singing quality, and he is well equipped technically. He gave a splendid rendering of Beethoven's "Symphonie Variation for Violoncello," reminiscent of W. H. Squires and Mischa Cherniasky, and replied to the insistent demand from those present with "Meditation" from "Thais."

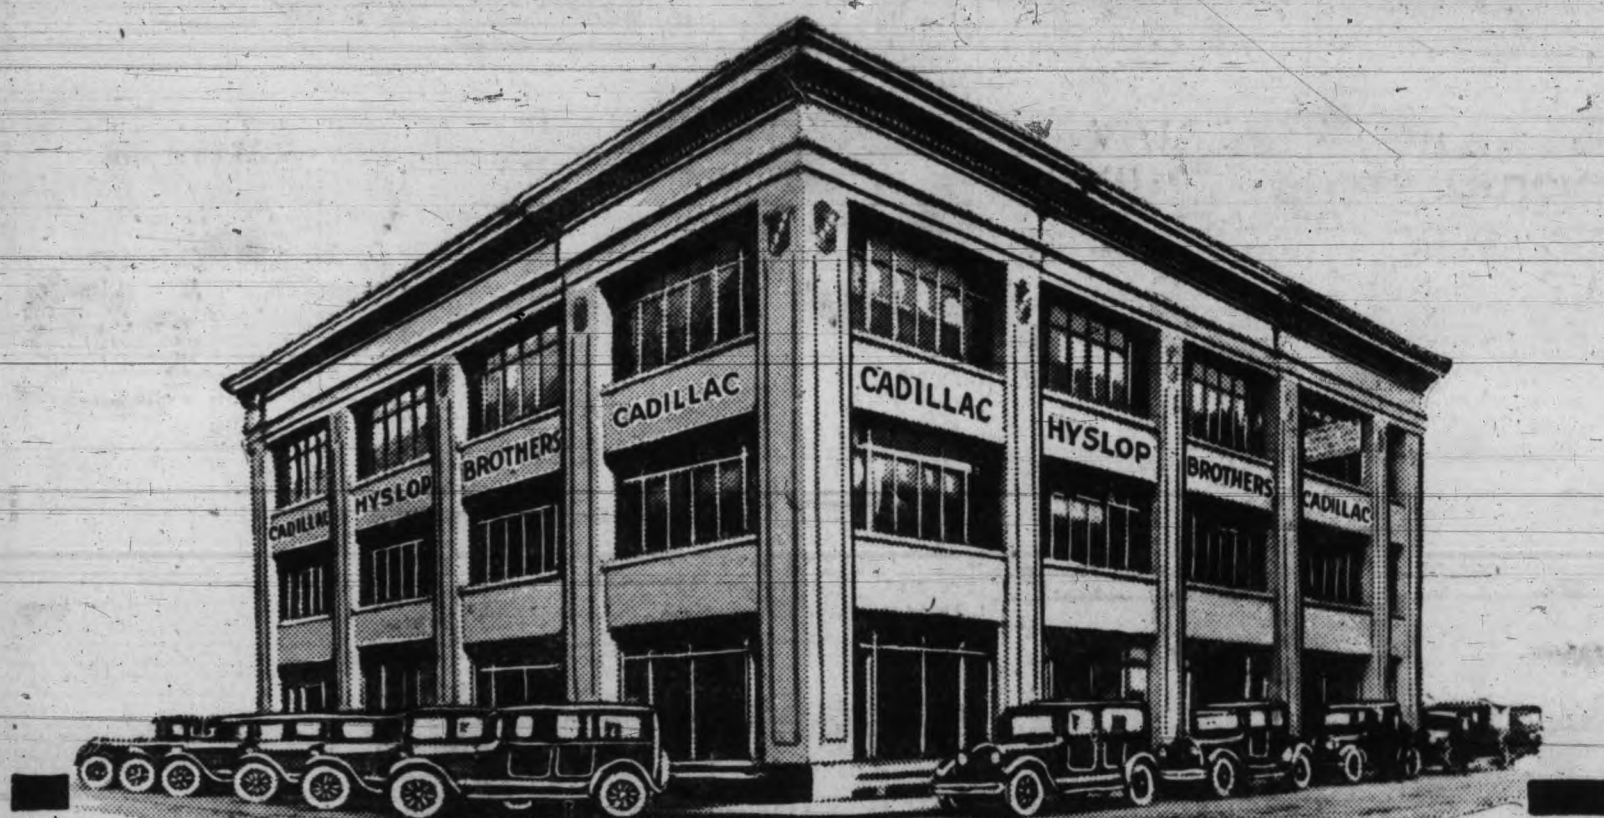

As is expected from such an admirable accompanist as is Mrs. A. J. Gibson ample and skillful support were forthcoming to both soloists, but strangely enough her efforts seemed over-keen and somewhat self-assertive, as in some instances pianissimo passages by the singer and cellist were overpowered in the accompaniment.

Those who took part in the orchestra were:

First violins, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Leeder, Miss Young, Mrs. P. R. Brown, Miss F. Barton, Mrs. Aldous, Mrs. Foot, Miss Jessie Carter, H. Bassett and F. Food; second violins, Miss Bradshaw, Miss Grant, Miss G. Hinton, Miss Porter, Miss L. Parfitt, Mr. Wylie, Grant, F. Walker, A. L. Curtis and E. Squire; violas, Miss Wilkinson and Jesse Longfield; bass, H. Ball and W. G. Plowright; flutes, L. W. Hargreaves and Mr. Jones; oboe, A. Rumaby; clarinet, E. G. Frele and J. Blackley; bassoon, I. Culross; cellos, Mrs. Hargreaves, Mrs. Fleming, Harold Taylor, Gordon Shaw and J. H. Hinton; French horns, W. Tilley and H. Greenwood; cornets, G. H. E. Green and J. Milligan; trombone, C. Raine; bass tuba, A. Haggart; tympani, drums, etc., H. Pigot.
